J. J. THOMAS NAMED TO RESERVE BOARD

Mattern Streaks Over Atlantic On Round-World Flight

NEBRASKA DEMO CHAIRMAN GETS MAJOR OFFICE

Nomination of Seward Attorney to Governing Body of Federal Banking System Made by President—Choice Approved by Woodin Long Ago, But Delayed by Other Business.

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP)—President Roosevelt today named J. J. Thomas of Nebraska and M. S. Szymczak of Chicago as members of the federal reserve board.

Thomas' nomination was said to have lain on the president's desk for three weeks, bearing all that time the okeh of Secretary of the Treasury Woodin.

Due to the tremendous pressure of other business the president has been unable to find time to finish his appointments to the reserve board since Eugene Black of Atlanta was named governor last month.

J. J. THOMAS

Third Plum for State.

President Roosevelt's action in naming Judge J. J. Thomas of Seward, chairman of the democratic state central committee, as a member of the federal reserve board brings to Nebraska the third major appointment to a position whose jurisdiction extends beyond state lines that it has received under the present national administration.

Previously, the president appointed Judge J. W. Woodrough of Omaha to the United States circuit bench for the eighth district, and he also designated James H. Hanley of Omaha for membership on the federal radio commission. Both these men are now serving in their new capacities.

Since Judge Thomas has the endorsement of all elements in the democratic party of Nebraska, and his abilities are generally conceded it is a foregone conclusion that his appointment will be confirmed by the senate probably before congress adjourns for the summer recess.

Boomed for Judge.

He was originally boomed for United States district judge to succeed Woodrough, but National Committeeman Arthur F. Mullen who was committed to the support of J. A. Donohoe for that position, recommended Thomas to the president for the federal reserve board.

REYNOLDS CASE DECREE STANDS

Supreme Court Overrules Two Motions For Rehearing.

Two motions for rehearing in a suit involving disposal of a $50,000 insurance policy carried by the late Carl E. Reynolds, president of the Federal Trust Co., were overruled by the Supreme court Saturday.

The court in the decision on which a rehearing was asked held that the proceeds of the policy should be distributed under terms of an agreement whereby the bulk of the amount went to the widow, a number of officers of the company and others designated by Reynolds. Provision was made for repayment to the trust company of premiums paid out of its funds on the policy.

Ira E. Atkinson, John Ledwith, and a group of other stockholders brought the suit in an attempt to have the entire proceeds of the policy turned over to the company. They held that the proceeds of an insurance policy must be paid to the corporation whose funds were used to pay the premium.

A separate motion for rehearing, also overruled, was filed by the widow, Mrs. Reynolds. She asked the court to withdraw from its opinion all portions relating to the conduct of John Ledwith as attorney in the case. In the opinion the court had held that an attorney, after receiving the confidence of a client, may not enter the service of others whose interests are adverse to such a client. Mrs. Reynolds in asking a rehearing said that it was not her contention that Ledwith passed judgment on the legality of the trust agreement made by her husband.

STIFF DROP IN STATE TREASURY

Slow Tax Collections Cut Deeply Into General Fund.

Tax collections and other revenue for the general fund of Nebraska in May this year fell about half a million dollars short of the amount taken in during the same month of 1932, and the cash balance in that fund on May 31 was more than a million below what was on hand at the corresponding date a year ago.

Total general fund receipts in May this year, derived chiefly from real estate taxes of the previous year paid to county treasurers and remitted by them to State Treasurer Hall, aggregated $794,294, as against $1,284,265 taken in for the like month of 1932.

Balance Is $676,935.

The balance in the fund at the close of business May 31 stood at $676,935, compared with $1,698,009 a year ago.

This heavy decline in state revenue forecasts a serious condition later on due to widespread delinquency in payments of real estate taxes. May and June ordinarily mark the high tide of the year and pile up large reserves of cash in the general fund to carry the state government along during the next few months when tax

Bandits Raid Two Banks in Illinois Town

CULLOM, Ill., June 3—(AP)—Eight robbers held up two banks here today, shot and wounded two persons, and escaped with about $2,500 from each bank.

The robbers rode down main street in two automobiles, firing pistols right and left. A woman pedestrian scurried to cover as they fired at her. Bullets crashed through windows of a physician's office.

The two wounded, Frank Kopp and Doris Coalsam, both business men, were standing in the doorways of their stores.

The town was terrorized for ten minutes while the wildly shooting bandits dashed into the two banks, scooped up all the cash in sight, and then sped out of town, still shooting.

W. J. Kiley, cashier, and J. W. Shearer, assistant cashier of the First National bank, were kidnaped by the bandits and released, unharmed, two miles west of Cullom.

SEARCH HILLS FOR FUGITIVES

Posses Continue Hunt For Kansas Convicts In Rugged Country.

JAY, Okla., June 3—(AP)—With one of eleven fugitive Kansas convicts in jail here, posses of nearly a hundred farmers armed with shotguns and squirrel rifles and aided by bloodhounds from state's prison, continued today to beat the brush of the ruggled Delaware country hills around Dripping Springs for others.

Lewis Bechtel, young bank bandit who was captured yesterday, sourly contended he was alone but officers believed at least two of the fugitives had been seen with him near Siloam Springs, Ark., two days ago.

Bechtel was held in the county jail here pending the result of the search for his supposed companions.

The manhunt for the remaining

V. CHRISTENSON SUICIDE STORY TOLD AT INQUEST

Verdict Says Suspect Died of Self Inflicted Gunshot Wound.

WEAPON POINTED AT HIM, SAYS HULFISH

Police Attempt To Find Accomplice Proves Fruitless.

Identified as Virgil Christenson but unclaimed by relatives, the body of a 28-year-old man who shot himself here Friday while being questioned by police officers lay in an undertaking establishment Saturday following a coroner's jury verdict that he died "as a result of a gunshot wound which was self inflicted in the left breast."

At the inquest Captain of Detectives Harold Hulfish testified that Christenson, who assumed the alias of A. O. Sales here, first pointed the gun with which he killed himself at Hulfish and after hesitating a moment turned it upon himself and fired. "I fully expected to be shot," the police officer stated.

Quizzed About Cars.

Hulfish along with Deputy County Sheriff Cecil Ward, had gone to Christenson's room in an apartment house at 1829 O street to interrogate him about the ownership of two automobiles. The two officers testified that Christenson killed himself when they told him they were not satisfied with his story and that they were going to take him to the station.

Efforts to apprehend an accomplice believed to have operated with him here have been fruitless. It was learned at the inquest that police found a note in one of Christenson's cars. "I will meet you at the Y. M. C. A. in Lincoln if it takes all week. See ad," the note read.

Ward said a garageman near Christenson's O street quarters had related having a conversation with Christenson about this note. The garageman said that he had seen Christenson earlier with the car and then inquired of him later what he had done with it. Christenson re-

HEDGCOCK GIVEN SUPERVISOR JOB

Randall, Drake Win In Dispute On Warehouse Inspector Selection.

Appointment of Jess Hedgcock as new grain warehouse supervisor was announced Saturday by the state railway commission.

The selection was a victory for Commissioners C. A. Randall and Hugh Drake in their differences with Commissioner Floyd Bollen on this question. Bollen resigned recently from accepting jurisdiction over the warehouse activities of the commission claiming that the other commissioners wanted to appoint a present employe rather than a man particularly fitted for the work.

Hedgcock has been employed for about two years by the railway commission as a helper in the rate department, although he has not been regularly connected with the commission during all this period. His salary will be $125 a month.

Drake said that Hedgcock had experience in handling grain before he was connected with the commission and was highly recommended by the Farmers union at Auora, where he was formerly employed. Drake and Hedgcock made a trip to Omaha Friday to inspect the Cargill Grain Co. elevator there.

Urbach, Freed May 10, Held In Omaha Robbery

OMAHA, June 3—(AP)—Caught hiding behind a chimney on the roof of an apartment house here early today, Henry Urbach, ex-convict recently released at Lincoln confessed three Omaha home robberies police said today.

Officers were called by a report of a prowler in the apartment building. Discharge papers showed he had been freed May 10 after serving a three year sentence for grand larceny having been sent up from Omaha.

Protest Lifting of Ban On Firecrackers

Mayor Fleming said Saturday that he has had a number of protests against lifting restrictions against fireworks. In each instance he declared the protestants do not object to novelties being added to the list of pieces that can be sold and exploded. Under no condition do they want firecrackers included, the mayor added. According to the present ordinance the permissible fireworks can be sold at anytime.

DR. G. H. BENTZ, KEARNEY, DIES

Car Accident Injuries Fatal To Local Legion Head.

KEARNEY, Neb., June 3—Dr. G. H. Bentz, 62, commander of the Kearney post of the American Legion, died Saturday from complications following injuries suffered in an automobile accident last April 12. His widow, three sons and a daughter survive.

Dr. Bentz and two of his sons served overseas in the World war. He took a prominent interest in Legion activities and in Boy Scouts, as well as other civic undertakings.

A military funeral will be held but definite arrangements had not been made this afternoon.

Corn Planting Is 95 Per Cent Done Anderson Reports

All but 5 per cent of the corn was planted by June 1, A. E. Anderson, state and federal agricultural statistician, announced Saturday. The corn and spring grain crops are from a week to ten days late, however.

"Moisture is needed in eastern Nebraska especially for the counties north of the Platte river," Anderson said. "The spring grain, hays and pasture crops are showing the effects of the drouths. The western two-thirds of the state is in excellent shape as far as moisture is concerned.

"Considerable leaf tip burning of winter wheat and other small grain crops has been noted throughout the state. Some attribute this to the high winds. The thin stand of winter wheat that is left in western Nebraska has not recovered as well as in eastern Nebraska."

PLUMBERS ASK REGISTRATION

Want New Masters and Journeymen to Stand Examination.

Thirty-seven contracting and journeymen plumbers petitioned the city council Saturday to require the examination and registration of all master plumbers and journeymen. Another petition asked that master plumbers license fees be reduced from $35 to $20 and that the bond fees be cut from $25,000 to either $10,000 or $15,000.

According to Frank Statz, contracto and journeymen who now are in business will not be affected by the examination and registration ordinance if it is passed. It will apply only to new companies and workers.

ECONOMY PLAN FACES 'REVOLT' IN LOWER WING

Majority Reported Opposed to Economies Affecting Veterans.

AWAIT DECISION OF ROOSEVELT

President, Reported "Sympathetic," Confers With Cutting.

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP)—President Roosevelt today took up the decision of the senate restricting the administration's program for economies on veterans allowances talking with Senator Cutting, republican, New Mexico, about it.

The administration's course was a matter of conjecture. Speaker Rainey having hazarded earlier that the house was "in as much revolt as the senate" against the economies in veterans' expenditures.

Senator Cutting estimated that yesterday's senate vote limiting to 25 per cent the reductions in allowances which may be made for service-connected disabilities would reduce the expected economies by about $150,000,000.

The senator who was one of those favoring some modification in the veterans economy program said the president received his report "very sympathetically."

While the administration may seek some modification of the senate's action—and Rainey intimated word from President Roosevelt was being looked for—there is no indication that the president will seek complete elimination of the action or veto the bill if it stands as is.

Some Concern Felt.

Nevertheless the president's aides who are responsible for balancing the budget and making ends meet

QUERY IS GIVEN TEN YEAR TERM

Pleads Guilty to Holdup Of Filling Station Attendant.

Quintin Query, 24, of Osceola, Neb., received his second decade-long sentence in three years when he pleaded guilty in District court here Saturday morning to a charge of highway robbery in connection with the holdup of Arthur Schwartz, attendant of the Skelly oil station at Fourteenth and South streets, on May 20. The 10 year penitentiary penalty was pronounced by Judge J. H. Broady.

Query, who confessed three other holdups in Lincoln and an Omaha robbery, said that he had been given a 10 to 21 year sentence for robbing a drug store in Kansas about three years ago. After serving about a year and a half in the Hutchinson, Kas., reformatory, he was paroled.

The prisoner had little to say to the court except that he had learned his lesson and that he hoped for the opportunity of making a living for his wife and child.

Query was arrested in Abilene, Kas., Wednesday, and was returned to Lincoln Friday. The complaint charged him with obtaining $33.69 in the Skelly station holdup, but he said that the amount taken there and in the other cases were overestimated.

Martial Law Lifted

BISMARCK, N. D., June 3—(AP)—Martial law in the city of Bismarck was lifted at 11 a. m., today by Gov. William Langer who proclaimed it Thursday because of disorder at the state capitol site.

The labor strike which precipitated the military rule, confined to the small area in which the $2,000,000 building is under construction, was settled late Thursday. There has been no trouble since.

EIGHT INDICTED FOR KIDNAPING

McGee, Leader of Gang, Confesses Abduction of Miss McElroy.

KANSAS CITY, June 3—(AP)—Walter H. McGee, 37, confessed leader and seven other persons were indicted by a federal grand jury here today in connection with the kidnaping last Saturday of Miss Mary McElroy, 25, daughter of City Manager H. F. McElroy.

The indictments contained three counts. One charged the transportation of Miss McElroy from Missouri to Kansas in violation of a federal interstate kidnaping statute enacted after the kidnaping of the infant son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh. The other counts charged the accused persons with sending two extortion letters in the United States mail.

The indictments were returned within two hours after the grand jury convened and came while McGee was dictating a confession to Chief of Detectives Thomas J. Higgins. Higgins said McGee's confession implicated Clarence Stevens, Clarence Click, and McGee's brother, George.

Two Being Sought

Click is in police custody and George McGee and Stevens are being sought.

Those named in the indictments: McGee, his brother George, Click, Stevens, Windell Johnson, his wife, Hazel, L. R. Gilbert, and his wife, Lenore.

The Gilberts, the Johnsons and McGee were arrested yesterday in Amarillo, Tex., and were brought here today by airplane.

Violation of the first count is punishable by a maximum of life imprisonment, the second count by a maximum imprisonment of 20 years.

The findings of the jury were read in the presence of the victim.

Madison Farm Hand Seriously Injured

Falls From Haymow and Abdomen Is Penetrated By Two By Four Scantling.

NORFOLK, Neb., June 3—(AP)—Clarence Lewis, young man who has been working on the Henry Hetzel farm near Madison, was seriously injured Friday afternoon when he fell from a hayloft and was impaled on a 2 by 4 plank.

He was brought to a Norfolk hospital, where his condition today was reported to be "fair." The scantling penetrated his abdomen.

Lewis was helping put hay in the barn when he slipped and fell. The plank had to be torn from its place before the injured man could be released. He is married and is the father of a small child.

JAMES FARLEY COMING HERE

Postmaster General To Aid In 7 Nebraska Demo Rallies.

Postmaster General James A. Farley is to speak at seven democratic rallies in Nebraska, the largest of which will be held in Lincoln late in July, Donald P. Renner, president of the Lancaster County Democratic club, declared Saturday noon. The local democratic organization which met at the Commusker hotel Saturday noon plans to sponsor the Farley meeting to take place here.

Five "rallies" are to be held in each of the five congressional districts of the state and one each in Omaha and Lincoln, the latter being the big meeting of the state. The idea behind the meetings is to keep the party organization intact in non-election years.

Ed Vail, assistant attorney general, was speaker at the luncheon Saturday noon.

HUBBELL DECREE ENTERED

A formal decree in the Hubbell bank case was entered in District court Saturday under the mandate sent down from the Supreme court. This case marking the end of the old bank guarantee legislation in Nebraska, enjoins the state from collecting assessments for the bank guaranty fund or the depositors final settlement fund.

Weather Forecast For Coming Week

CHICAGO, June 3—(AP)—The weather outlook for the week beginning Monday follows: Upper Mississippi and lower Missouri valleys: Weather mostly unsettled, rather frequent showers, temperatures above normal for most part.

YOUNG TEXAN POINTS PLANE TOWARD PARIS

28-Year-Old Pilot Leaves New York Early Saturday in Single-Handed Attempt to Better Globe-Circling Record—Sighted Over New Foundland as He Heads for Open Sea.

JAMES MATTERN.

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, June 3—(AP)—James J. Mattern's round-the-world monoplane was heard over Musgrave harbor, Bonavista north, Newfoundland, shortly after he had been reported today at Lewisporte, Newfoundland. Musgrave harbor is on the northeastern coast, and it was assumed that the airman was heading seaward without a stop.

NEW YORK, June 3—(AP)—James Mattern of Texas took off here today on his air race against time around the world and passed over Newfoundland well ahead of the time of the present record holders.

Mattern left here at 4:20 a. m. (E. S. T.) and was first sighted at Lewisport, N. F., 7 hours and 49 minutes later. He did not stop, but headed on toward the open sea and Paris, his first scheduled stop.

Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, who hold the world circling record, got to Newfoundland quicker, making it to Harbor Grace in 6 hours and 51 minutes but they waited there for 3 hours and 40 minutes before continuing.

Therefore, by not stopping in Newfoundland Mattern started his ocean flight more than two hours in the lead.

Mattern was in high spirits as he taxied his plane to the far end of the long concrete runway this morning.

Mattern said he would make no stop at Harbor Grace but would pass over there and head out across the open sea.

"I'm aiming for Paris," he said, "and if I have enough juice left

SENATE SPLITS ON GOLD ISSUE

Borah and Reed, Republicans, in Verbal Clash As Vote Nears.

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP)—A statement to the senate by Reed, republican, Pa., that the administration measure to permit payment of all gold contracts in legal tender money would shame the American people for generations drew a warm defense of the proposal today by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho.

The Idaho senator said the country was "not making a situation but meeting a situation" and there has never been any hope for a year and a half that it could avoid going off the gold standard.

"It is true that those who hold contracts will suffer," he said. "But somebody must suffer and suffer extremely. The masses have suffered intolerably."

Party Lines Broken

Return Soon to 2-Cent Postage On Letter Mail Is Forecast by Farley

GROVE CITY, Pa., June 3—(AP)—James A. Farley, postmaster general, today forecast the return of 2-cent postage on letter mail "within the next few weeks."

Speaking at the dedication of Grove City's new federal building, Farley said he expects President Roosevelt to sign the postage bill in a few days.

Farley said there are "unmistakable signs that the postal service is sharing in the business recovery which is now in the making."

$35,000 Dividends To Bank Depositors

About $35,000 is being paid out to depositors in four suspended state banks as the first distributions made by the state receivership division under court orders for the month of June. The amounts are as follows:

Franklin—Franklin Exchange bank, 10 per cent, $11,561; total to date 35 per cent, $30,452.

Cortland—Farmers' State bank, 10 per cent, $10,596; total to date 30 per cent, $31,769.

Clay Center—Clay Center State bank, 7 per cent, $7,008; total to date 32.39 per cent, $32,433.

Graf—Bank of Graf, 10 per cent, $5,220; total to date 70 per cent, $36,601.

A formal decree in the Hubbell bank case in accordance with the recent United States Supreme court decision releasing all state banks from liability for payments to the old guaranty fund was entered Saturday morning in the District court of Lancaster county which rendered the original judgment to that effect. This clears the way for receivers of a number of failed banks to distribute these reserves among the depositors while in other cases it removes all prospects of the depositors receiving anything more.

BOY KICKED BY HORSE IS DEAD

Animal Lands Hoof In Abdomen With Fatal Result.

FALLS CITY, Neb., June 3—(AP)—Leo Carpenter, 17 year old Rulo farm youth who was kicked by a horse, died in a hospital here today. He was injured fatally when he entered the barn to hitch up the horse for work. The horse kicked Carpenter in the abdomen.

House Votes to Protect Jobs of Railway Workers

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP)—The house today changed the railroad reorganization bill to force carriers to keep on their payrolls the same number of employes as in last month, except for normal retirements.

The change was made after the defeat by 60 to 34 of a proposal by Martin, democrat, Colorado, to force railroads to fill vacancies caused by death and resignation.

The amendment authorizes labor organizations to set up a committee in each of the three regional groups of railroads to deal with the arrangements.

Chairman Rayburn, democrat, Texas, of the house interstate commerce committee said the amendment did not permit the discharge of any employes through acts of the federal co-ordinator.

Earlier today the house defeated an amendment by Kelly, republican, Pennsylvania, to place motor bus and truck subsidiaries of rail carriers under the measure. The vote was 70 to 30.

FLIES 440 MILES AN HOUR.

ROME, June 3—(AP)—An unofficial air speed record at an average of 440 miles an hour was claimed today by Warrant Officer Francesco Agello who flew 426½ miles an hour April 10 and who is preparing for an official attempt soon in his famous "Red Bullet."

As Rogers Sees It

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 3—Well I am glad to see the midgets get a break. In all my experiences around show business they are a mighty fine little breed of folks. We have had "bank relief," "big business relief," and now we get "midget relief."

Mr. Morgan acted mighty human. He just picked up that little midget and played with it as though it was the federal reserve, or the United States Chamber of Commerce.

I'll tell you how Mr. Morgan can square this whole thing, and you will never hear another word against him. That's by simply putting everybody on the preferred list that wasn't on it already. I haven't heard a kick, only by those that were overlooked.

Yours, WILL.

Koch Depicts Changes In Education Trend

Changing educational philosophy in the United States through the years, resulting in the development of the junior high school twenty years ago and the similar development of the junior college today, was discussed by Prof. Harlan Koch, of the University of Nebraska, speaking before the Lincoln chapter of the American Inter-Professional institute at the Lincoln hotel Saturday noon. His talk was entitled "Some Observations Concerning the Emergency in Education."

J. J. THOMAS IS APPOINTED TO RESERVE BOARD

instead. Donohoe has since been named to the judicial office.

The federal reserve board place had been tentaively allotted to Nebraska at the outset of the Roosevelt administration, and former United States Senator G. M. Hitchcock of Omaha was slated for it at that time But Mr. Hitchcock announced that he did not wish the appointment, and this left the opening for Judge Thomas.

Heads Bar Association.

Judge Thomas has long been an active member of the Nebraska bar and ranks high among the members of his profession. He is president of the Nebraska State Bar association. He has been a delegate at large from Nebraska to several democratic national conventions. He was made state chairman last year and managed the successful campaign which brought an overwhelming victory to the entire democratic ticket in the November election.

Thomas has not been a factionalist in the democratic party but has always worked in harmony with Mullen, Hitchcock, Bryan and other leaders. He is a personal friend of Senator W. H. Thompson, who will undoubtedly support his nomination by the president for senate approval.

Judge Thomas was the democratic opponent of Senator Norris in the campaign of 1924, but that fact is not expected to weigh against his confirmation.

of the kidnaping plot and her father.

T. J. Layson, assistant district attorney, said prosecution would be held in abeyance pending the outcome of trials in the state court on charges which have been prepared by T. A. J. Mastin, county prosecutor, under a Missouri statute which provides the death penalty.

Higgins, said McGee admitted he and Stevens were the actual kidnapers who went to the McElroy home, forced Miss McElroy to leave her bath, dress and accompany them in a motor car.

Higgins said McGee told him, his brother, George, and Click had acted as guards to the city manager's daughter while she was being held 29 hours in a house near Kansas City, Kas.

Planned to Kidnap Son.

McGee told him, Higgins said, that Johnson and the others arrested with him in Amarillo had no actual part in the abduction but that he had picked them up in Oklahoma on his way south to aid in passing part of the $30,000 ransom paid by Mc-Elroy.

McGee stated, Higgins said that the kidnapers originally planned to abduct Henry F. McElroy, jr., 23, the only other child of the city manager. This plan fell through, Higgins asserted McGee told him, when, after trailing the city manager in the hope of getting a good view of his son, the abductors failed to see the youth. The gang then determined to kidnap his sister.

Click, and Lucille Cates, McGee's former wife, who told Police she was forced by McGee to prepare the meals for Miss McElroy while she was held prisoner, were taken into custody yesterday in Kansas City, Kas.

SENATE SPLITS ON GOLD ISSUE

debates of the session in which party lines were completely broken. Passage of the bill was expected, possibly late today.

Reed held the administration proposal was unconstitutional, and he was supported by Senators Glass, democrat, Va.; Gore, democrat, Oklahoma: Logan, democrat, Kentucky and Fess, republican, Ohio.

Borah said the constitution gave congress unlimited power to regulate money regardless of its effect on contracts. He was supported by some on both sides of the party aisle.

Chairman Fletcher, of the banking committee, opened the debate on the administration measure by an appeal for swift action because of the treasury's plan for refinancing.

About People

The officers of Lancaster Lodge No. 54 A. F. & A. M. entertained at a dinner Friday evening in honor of the out-going master, Alfred O. Faulhaber, and Mrs. Faulhaber at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Bathen. Twenty-eight were present during the evening. A gift was presented to Mr. Faulhaber by the officers. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Yates and Mr. and Mrs. Jess Turner.

A visitor in the state capitol Friday afternoon was Miss Madelaine Kroll of New York City, secretary and an assistant to Miss Hildreth Meiere, one of America's most noted artists, who designed all the tile and marble mosaics in the capitol. Miss Kroll, who is enroute to Taos, N. M., had just left Miss Meiere in Chicago, where the latter was completing an important mural project for the National Council of Women exhibit in the social sciences building of A Century of Progress exposition. The mural, 60 feet long and 8 feet high, portrays the progress of American womanhood as advanced beyond the confines of the home in the last century. Miss Meiere also designed an outdoor tile fountain for the radio and communications group.

when I get there I won't stop, but will keep right on to Moscow."

Lewisport is approximately 150 miles northwest of Harbor Grace, take-off point of many previous attempts to fly the Atlantic.

NEW YORK, June 3—(AP)—An aerial Jack-of-all-work, with six oranges in his pocket and a grin on his lips, hopped off from Floyd Bennett field today in a single-handed try at the globe-girdling record.

James Joseph Mattern, 28, of San Angelo, Tex., who has done all kinds of flying chores, from toting iced meats to Mexico to hopping the Atlantic, roared down the mile-long runway in his "Century of Progress" and got away at 4:20 a. m., eastern standard time.

The record, 8 days, 7 hours and 51 minutes, was set two years ago by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty.

As to Mattern's first stop on the terrific grind, there were several versions and much confusion. First he was represented as hoping to get to Moscow without a stop. Later it was said that Berlin, more than 4,000 miles from New York, was his first aim.

After he soared away, however, Jack Clark II, his personal representative, announced that neither of these was right, that he would stop first in Paris, about 3,600 miles from New York, snatch a little sleep and go on to Moscow. Clark said he should make Paris in about 27 hours.

Plane Streaks Away.

After the red-white-and-blue monoplane had soared to a height of 3,800 feet, it streaked away, in a tremendous burst of speed, toward Harbor Grace, N. F., where Mattern planned to head out over the Atlantic.

The oranges were Mattern's only food supply.

"All I need is them and a good tail wind to get over there in short order," he said with a smile as a crowd which had stayed up all night cheered.

After Moscow, he planned halts for "40 winks" at Yakutsk, Siberia; Nome and Fairbanks, Alaska; and Edmonton, Alta., whence he hopes to fly non-stop back to New York.

This route follows closely the one which he and Bennett Griffin mapped last year for a world-circling attempt which came to grief in a Russian peat bog.

Mattern, a former jazz drummer, received weather reports that his associates called "perfect." A map prepared by Dr. James H. Kimball, weather man, who has become known as unofficial starter of ocean flights, indicated strong tail winds to Harbor Grace and across the ocean.

Severe Ordeal.

Bad weather had held him at the field for several days. Meantime he whipped himself into shape for the ordeal, one of the most severe ever faced by a flier, by daily sessions with punching bag and rowing machine.

He tumbled from bed in a Coney Island hotel about 3 a. m., and went to the field, where he rubbed sleep from his eyes and watched mechanics pouring 702 gallons of gasoline into the plane.

He is a native of Freeport, Ill., and for his flying exploits has been made a colonel on the staffs of Governors Murray of Oklahoma and Ferguson of Texas. A husky and skilled youth, he has a background of army flying in Honolulu, of barnstorming and movie stunts.

His ship is a combination of two planes. The engine, propeller, tanks and some other parts are those of the original "Century of Progress," which descended in the Russian bog, but the fuselage, wings, vertical fin and rudder are from the "Flying Trade Mark" in which Lieuts. Will W. White and Clement McMullen set a New York-to-Buenos Aires record in 1930.

Attendants at Floyd Bennett expressed the opinion Mattern would be over Harbor Grace in six or seven hours after leaving here and over Ireland in perhaps 17 or 18 hours if ideal conditions prevail.

STIFF DROP IN STATE TREASURY

income usually falls to a low level. With a million dollars less to go on now than a year ago, the treasury will be likely to feel the pinch later on; and unless there is a marked pickup in next month's receipts it may become necessary to register state warrants for lack of funds to pay them, before 1933 has run its course.

Although appropriations for the new biennium, starting July 1, to be paid out of tax funds were reduced about 3 1-3 million dollars below those available during the last two years, the saving in expenditures will not begin to show before August, since the state government is still running along on the old appropriations.

Spent $559,517 In May.

Whether the cutting down of outgo will be enough to balance the very substantial reduction of income and thus keep the treasury "out of the red" is uncertain at this time.

The general fund in May paid out $559,517 against $794,294 taken in, so that the net gain for a month that usually piles up a huge cash surplus was less than a quarter of a million dollars—only enough to meet current requirements for about two weeks.

Total cash in the treasury exhibits a good increase for May, from $2,936,433 at the beginning of the month to $3,621,234 at the end; but more than half the total gain appears in three funds which get their revenue from other sources than property taxes. The gasoline tax fund balance rose from $500,464 to $780,059, largely because there was little highway work being done; motor vehicle license fund, from $131,706 to $230,181, mainly for the same reason; and the temporary school fund took in $81,782 in school land rentals, interest on investments, and other items, while nothing was paid out, raising its balance from $264,320 to $346,102.

The state treasury received $853,971 of federal aid road money during May but paid out $907,612, leaving $173,965 still in that fund.

DEATH AT ALLIANCE.

ALLIANCE, Neb., June 3—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Brice, 77, pioneer of Alliance, died Thursday. She is survived by two sons. Funeral and interment took place here.

Lute North and A. E. Sheldon Plan To Retrace Historic Scout Trails

The territory which he and Buffalo Bill scouted for the government will be visited again this spring by Capt. Lute North of Columbus. North, a famous scout of the early days when the Indians and buffalos rivaled pioneer ranchers for supremacy, expects that this will be his last visit to that territory, according to A. E. Sheldon, superintendent of the Nebraska State Historical society.

North, who is in his eighties, will accompany Sheldon on a trip beginning June 12, during which they will visit a number of towns in the northwest part of the state.

Outline Three Aims.

Arrangements for the appearances of North and Sheldon have been made by Prof. E. P. Wilson of the Chadron State Teachers college, who is a member of the executive board of the historical society. The trip has three objectives: to organize a county historical society in every county in northwest Nebraska; to gather information about the early cattle ranches of western Nebraska; and to determine and locate early Indian camps and prehistoric remains.

Sheldon, who homesteaded in western Nebraska, and Wilson are planning to write a volume on the early cattle ranches of west Nebraska. Sheldon expects to interview as many of the old ranchers and their children as possible while on the trip with North.

Itinerary for Trip.

The itinerary for the trip follows:

June 12—Meeting with Madison County Historical society, F. L. Putney and Mrs. Mary Robinson in charge.

June 13—At Neligh, meeting with old settlers and historical people.

June 14—O'Neill at noon, Lions club in charge, arrangements being made by Miss Grace Joyce and O. A. Miles; Bassett at night, W. E. Buckendorf in charge of arrangements.

June 15—Ainsworth commercial club at noon, arrangements in charge of Dr. C. L. Gatton and H. B. Tyler, Springview at night, Ross Amspoker in charge.

June 16, 17—Valentine for convention of Nebraska Stockgrowers association.

June 18—North and Sheldon will be guests at Hudson ranch near Simeon.

June 19—Gordon at noon, Dwight Griswold in charge; Rushville at night, for organization of Sheridan County Historical society with County Superintendent Mrs. Pearle in charge.

June 20, 21—Chadron, Prof. E. P. Wilson in charge.

June 22—Harrison, A. M. Brown making arrangements.

June 23—Crawford, Karl Spence in charge.

V. CHRISTENSON SUICIDE STORY TOLD AT INQUEST

plied, it was said, that he had parked the car up town with a message for his partner whom he was expecting.

Identified by Fingerprints.

Positive identification of the body was made from fingerprints and by acquaintances. These sources of information showed Christenson to be a former inmate of the Minnesota reformatory at St. Cloud and of a Minnesota insane asylum. One of the automobiles involved, Chief of Police W. C. Condit was advised by telegram, was stolen recently from Minneapolis. Police believe that Christenson was involved in an auto theft ring.

A young wife, from whom Christenson had been estranged a few weeks is living in Wymore and his father, A. S. Christenson, resides in Frederick, Wis., investigation disclosed. B. R. Taylor of 1145 E street, who worked with Christenson at Sioux City, Ia., a number of years ago, identified the body as that of Christenson Friday night.

In a long distance telephone conversation Saturday morning, the estranged wife of Christenson stated that she knew nothing of her husband's automobile dealings when they parted a few weeks ago.

She stated that Christenson's mother, two brothers and one sister live at Frederick, Wis., and that a second sister lives at Rochester, Minn. She declined to give any names, however, and said that she "Would rather not have anything to do with it." Mrs. Christenson did not come to Lincoln from Wymore for the inquest.

Refuse Claim Body.

The wife declined the body as did the father in Wisconsin when notified by wire. Unless further word is received from relatives, Christenson probably will be buried here. Officers found $250 in his pockets. He was also wearing a high grade wrist watch, and an expensive leather bag was found in his room, carrying gold engraved initials "O. A. S." followed by the address "Detroit, Mich."

It was said at the county attorney's office that, unless some other claim is made, the money might be used to bury Christenson and the other articles sold to raise money for the same purpose.

The gun which Christenson used, a .25 caliber automatic, lay on Deputy County Attorney Farley Young's desk as he conducted the inquest at Castle, Roper and Matthews' chapel. The empty cartridge which had been fired by Christenson was still in the gun, caught by the ejector, Ward testified that the cartridge jammed as he caught Christenson's hand when the suicide attempted to fire a second shot.

Testifying at the inquest besides Hulfish and Ward were Dr. W. Allan Campbell, and Miss Velma Silerin, 605 South Tenth street, one of a number of girls who answered Christenson's advertisement for an office girl.

Bullet Pierced Heart.

Testimony of Dr. Campbell at the inquest was that Christenson was already dead when the physician examined him at about 11 o'clock in the morning. Dr. Campbell said the man died from a gun shot wound and added that the bullet probably pierced the heart.

Hulfish told of going to Christenson's quarters with Ward. Miss Silerin was making her application for the office position advertised by Christenson when the officers came in and she went into the outer room while Ward and Hulfish interviewed the man. Hulfish said that he went out after five minutes and told Miss Silerin that the officers were suspicious of Christenson and advised her to leave, which she did.

Returning to the inner room, Hulfish said he and Ward talked about three more minutes with Christenson and then told him they were going to take him to the station. Hulfish said he saw Christenson reach in his pocket and thought he was getting a cigaret until he saw the blue of the gun. He then told about Christenson first training the gun on him before killing himself. Ward said he did not see Christenson draw or aim the gun and did not know anything was wrong until he heard a report "like a little firecracker" and saw Christenson fumbling with his weapon trying to fire it a second time.

Died In Few Minutes.

The officers grappled with the suicide, they said, and got the gun out of his possession. Hulfish ran to call for help but Christenson died within a few moments, Ward testified.

Miss Silerin said Christenson told her he and his partner wanted a girl to answer the phone, but who would also be capable of driving a car and demonstrating it to prospective purchasers. The girl would receive a commission above her salary for any car sold during such a demonstration. Miss Silerin said Christenson told her

Asked by Mr. Young if she noticed anything strange about the man, the girl replied: "Now that I think it over he seemed a little nervous and sober, not entirely at his ease. He asked me if I had any objections to the job offered and I told him I didn't as long as everything was on the level."

Miss Silerin said she told Christenson she would be willing to start work at $10 a week. He answered, she said, that it was more than some of the applicants were asking but that he realized one person might be worth more than another. The girl then told of her interview being interrupted by the arrival of the officers.

Police Suspicious.

The officers had gone to the rooming house after a preliminary investigation the day before had produced information warranting a closer checkup of the automobiles and their owner. Officers had kept one automobile, a large sedan, "covered" Thursday and reported that the license plates on it had been switched during the day.

During the brief conversation with Christenson, he told them a story of having met a man by the name of Arthur Pederson, an automobile salesman at DeWitt who had hired him to sell cars for him. The officers pressed Chirtsenson for details, they said, while the three remained seated.

Another automobile, a small sedan, which police have been unable to trace so far, also was in possession of Christenson. Police have kept this machine "covered" several days both before and after the shooting, in hope that an accomplice, if any, would attempt to drive off with it.

In Christenson's room, which he had taken a few days ago, were found several sets of license plates. Among them were plates taken from an automobile stolen from Paul Jacobus, Omaha, May 13.

ECONOMY PLAN FACES 'REVOLT' IN LOWER WING

have indicated some concern over the upset in the economy program.

The president, who is still keeping an open mind on the senate action, has invited Senator Robinson, Arkansas, the party leader, and Director Lewis Douglas of the budget to cruise with him tomorrow down the Potomac river.

Representative Byrns of Tennessee, the democratic leader, also said "a majority of the house is in revolt against the regulations affecting veterans."

He explained this was indicated at the recent caucus which authorized a committee to protest to the president the regulations promulgated by Lewis W. Douglas, director of the budget, and Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator.

Byrns added that the independent offices bill would not come up in the house until Monday. It will then be decded whether to send it to conference.

SEARCH HILLS FOR FUGITIVES

fugitive was fareflung, but clues were meager

Couple Abducted.

MALVERN, Ark., June 3—(AP)—A story of a wild 12-hour ride over the greater part of southern Arkansas was told here today by Austin Adams and Miss Beatrice Garner, who were abducted last night by two men they believed were escaper Kansas convicts.

Adams and Miss Garner were attempting this afternoon to identify pictures of the Kansas convicts.

Adams said conversations of the two men left no doubt in his mind they were two of the Kansas fugitives.

Protest Of Armstrong Seemingly Premature; Co-op Poultry Marketing Association Forming.

LANGFORD ALSO LEGION MEMBER

North Platte Vets Divide Politically On Postmastership.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., June 3—(AP)—Verne Taylor, district commander of the American Legion, today said Department Commander Robert Armstrong "evidently has been misinformed as to the appointment of a postmaster here."

He had just read an Associated Press story that Armstrong had deplored the removal of William A. Barraclough as postmaster of North Platte, in a message to Congressman Terry Carpenter.

Taylor said the legion here took no part in the appointment of a North Platte postmaster, since Barraclough, who was removed, and Harold A. Langford, newly appointed postmaster, are members of the local legion post.

"Of course, members of the legion had their choice for the place, but that depended upon their party affiliations," Taylor said.

The district commander said he had tried to get in touch with Armstrong last night to explain to him that both Barraclough and Langford are members of the legion, but he learned the department commander was in Omaha.

Armstrong Sends Wire.

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP)—Congressman Terry Carpenter of Nebraska today said he had received a telegraph message from Robert Armstrong of Auburn, state commander of the American Legion, which said Nebraska ex-service men "deplore" the removal of William A. Barraclough as postmaster at North Platte.

Carpenter announced yesterday the appointment of H. A. Langford as acting postmaster at North Platte, and said Barraclough was removed because of republican political activities. Armstrong termed the charges untrue.

The Nebraska congressman pointed out that Langford also is an ex-service man, and that the charges against Barraclough were brought, not by Carpenter, but by the Lincoln county democratic committee.

Bridgeport Man Is Wounded By Robber

Assaulted While Sleeping In Boxcar Near Omaha and Shot in Abdomen Three Times.

OMAHA, June 3—(AP)—George Adams, 27, farm laborer of Bridgeport, was held up and shot three times in the abdomen early today by a man who roused him from sleep in a boxcar near here. Adams jumped to his feet and offered opposition.

The man fired, then fled. Adams was first awakened by a flashlight beam, then a kick in the ribs. Wounded severely, he walked several miles to a hospital here, where attendants reported his condition as serious.

Adams had about $18 which the robber failed to obtain.

LOWER ELECTRIC AND GAS CHARGES ORDERED AT YORK

YORK, Neb., June 3—(AP)—Ordinances providing for lower electric and gas rates were passed on third reading by the York city council Friday by a vote of 5 to 3. Under the provisions all service charges will be abolished and a reduction of approximately 10 per cent in rates effected next July 1.

A recent statement by officials of the Iowa - Nebraska Light and Power company, which furnishes the services, indicates court action may be taken to prevent enforcement of the lowered rates. Nothing definite has been done in this matter, however.

Calvin Webster was named city attorney to succeed Charles F. Gilbert, who died recently. Webster acted in that capacity during Gilbert's illness.

SYRACUSE NOTES

(Special to The Star.)

SYRACUSE, Neb., June 3—Mrs. W. L. Rogers and son, Jimmy, returned Wednesday from a week's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Guthre, Wapelo, Iowa. Her son, Keith, will remain with his grandparents during vacation.

The members of Sunrise Rebekah lodge and the Merri Mix social club held a joint farewell for Mrs. Anna McSwan and daughter, Evangeline, Thursday evening at the I. O. O. F. hall. The evening was spent in games. Miss Evangeline McSwan left Friday morning for Ceresco, where she will have charge of the telephone exchange and her mother will move there next Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Gunther of St. Paul, Minn., arrived Decoration day for a visit with Mr. Gunther's father and brothers.

The American Legion kittenball team went to Palmyra Thursday evening for a game with the legion team of that place, and lost by a score of 32 to 11. The same evening the Syracuse town team played the Elk Creek team here and won by a score of 16 to 3.

Hawks Clips 4 Hours From His Cross U.S. Mark

NEW YORK, June 3—(AP)—Los Angeles and New York are only 13 hours, 26 minutes and 15 seconds apart to Frank Hawks.

When he set down his "flying laboratory" at Floyd Bennett field at 10:18 o'clock, E. S. T., last night, it ended a non-stop solo flight from Los Angeles which broke Hawks' own record by 4 hours and 10 minutes. He established the record four years ago.

While the Hawks time yesterday is the best for a non-stop cross-continental flight, it is not the swiftest plane time between the two coasts. Capt. James Haizlip spanned the continent last year in 10 hours and 19 minutes, but his flight was not non-stop.

Although Hawks flew alone, he said he was really a "passenger," the plane being handled most of the way by a robot pilot. Only when darkness came near Butler, Pa., did Hawks take over the controls. His gasolin supply was nearly exhausted as he landed.

A great part of the 2,440 mile journey was flown at a height of 15,000 feet.

Pennies Pay Taxes

SIX FORESTERS ARE DISCHARGED

Engage In Fight With Soldiers Near Fort Crook.

FORT CROOK, Neb., June 3—(AP)—Six members of the civilian conservation corps stationed here were discharged today by Col. T. M. Anderson, commanding officer, following investigation of a brawl near the fort early yesterday in which three regular soldiers were badly beaten.

Four of those discharged were members of company No. 751, and two were from company 752, both of which are composed mainly of Omaha men. Fifteen others arrested as participants in the altercation were permitted to continue in the service after making pledges of future good behavior.

Approximately 100 of the foresters took an active part in the brawl at an oil station near the fort.

The fight started, according to Fred Schultz, oil station attendant, when seven or eight members of the reforestation corps began an argument with the soldiers. In the ensuing battle the enlisted men gained the upper hand and the reforestation men retreated to their camp nearby.

They soon reappeared, Schultz said, and a free for all in which the soldiers were badly beaten began. Schultz ran to the fort to call the guard and the guard, hurrying to the scene, rounded up 21 members of the civilian corps.

Vertebra Fracture Result of Scuffle

FREMONT, Neb., June 3—(AP)—Surgeons performed an operation upon Otis Button, 24, of Fremont, last night in an attempt to relieve the paralysis from the shoulders down which he suffered in a friendly scuffle at an Arlington dance pavilion. Doctors said there was a compression fracture of the sixth vertebra and that Button might have suffered it when he fell against an automobile during the scuffle Thursday night.

Today

Women Past Fifty

A Robot Pilot

Improving Sailor's Caps

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Thanks to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, girls and women unemployed and unmarried, from 16 to 45 years of age, will have an opportunity to enter camps and earn a living until times improve. Some women who applied past 50 and not eligible, "wept bitterly." For women past 50 the world does the least and should do the most.

Commander Frank Hawks, flying from Los Angeles to New York, "nonstop," is sitting quietly, hands idle, watching a "robot pilot" run the machine.

Twenty-five years ago few would believe that airships could ever really fly.

Suppose you had suggested that they would fly, piloted and controlled by a "robot," or artificial man. What would have been said?

Men can do whatever they can imagine, and many things more.

The Associated Press says "the Navy department has ordered greater 'rake' and 'flare' in enlisted men's caps." They must have the "required rake in the crown," and the sides must be "padded, to give the required flare."

All that is intensely satisfactory. Words cannot express our joy, learning that our enlisted navy men will no longer wear caps which lack rake and flare. That being settled, perhaps those in charge of government defense will look into the matter of airplanes, and get a little more "rake" in that direction. That would be appreciated.

Various straws tell you that the wind of change is blowing away depression. Lawrence P. Fisher, vice president of General Motors, and head of the Cadillac company, announces that Alfred P. Sloan, jr., head of General Motors, has authorized a 5 per cent wage increase, which affects 100,000 employes of the company.

This partial restoration of previous wage reductions will be welcome to the men. It is hoped that the example set by Mr. Sloan, in General Motors will be followed by other industrial concerns wherever earnings make it possible.

All newspaper men and the whole country will learn, with regret, of the very serious illness of Cyrus H. K. Curtis, who is eighty-three years old, and said to be "very ill."

Mr. Curtis is suffering from the after effects of a severe heart attack, which occurred a year ago. His has been a long, honorable life of useful work. He has made many friends, no enemies.

Mr. Hitler advances new ideas. Women must stay in the home, to attend to things there. They must not earn a living for themselves as they have been doing, often competing with men.

Some men will sympathize with that, but not the best men. The best will agree that a woman has a right to do exactly as she pleases, but hope that she will marry, create beautiful children, and be happy.

Mr. Hitler also declares that he will allow no work to be done by machinery, if it can be done by hand. Industrialists competing with German industry will be pleased with that. Man power, without the aid of German industrial and mechanical genius would never have built up Germany's interests and exports.

DOANE COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT

Activities Begin Friday With Baccalaureate Sunday.

(Special to The Star.)

CRETE, Neb., June 3 — Doane college began its sixty-first anniversary commencement events Friday with the recognition of extracurricular honors and the presentation of the candidates for honors. Practically every student at Doane had achieved honors in one or more of the following: Dramatics, forensics, journalism, music, women's athletics and men's athletics. Earl Johnson, athletic instructor at Lincoln high, gave the morning address.

That afternoon the faculty, students and guests went to Horky's park and attended the annual water carnival, given for the first time this year by the college.

Senior class day was held Saturday and according to custom there was the planting of the ivy by the class. William Knight Noyce gave the ivy day oration and Elizabeth Toogood the ivy poem.

Later, in the Lee Memorial chapel, Richard Edwin Reeves gave the class history and William Henry Harkins the class prophecy. Glenn Jessup, class president, presented the class to the college, with Pres. Edwin B. Dean making the response.

The Dawes oratorical contest, which was founded in 1888 by former Gov. James W. Dawes of Crete, was a feature of the afternoon's program, with Gloria Rapp, Carlos M. Schaper, Joseph and Donald Nyrop contesting.

Rev. W. A. Tyler, D. D., superintendent Nebraska Congregational conference is to give baccalaureate address Sunday morning at the First Congregational church.

Bankruptcy Filings In Federal Court Fewer Than In 1932

Bankruptcy filings in Federal court here have dropped off considerably in the past two months, following a trend noticeable since the first of the year. Records produced by J. B. Nickerson, deputy clerk of the court, show but four bankruptcies filed last month as compared to twelve in May 1932. April had nine as compared to twelve a year ago; March, 7, compared with twenty-one a year ago; February, 9, compared with twenty-one and January, eleven, compared with nine. The total for the first five months this year is forty as against seventy-five for the first five months of 1932.

State Board to Open Bids On Provisions

Bids will be opened by the board of control next week on meat, groceries and other supplies for the seventeen state institutions, Chairman Harry Thorpe of the board said Saturday. The supplies are for the next quarter and in some cases for the next half year.

Prices will be watched with interest by the board at the letting Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Some of them fear that the inflationary movement may be reflected in slightly increased prices. The supplies to be purchased include flour and feed, groceries, paper, coffee, tea, laundry supplies, janitor supplies, dishes, meats, butter, yeast and shoes.

George D. Baker Is Dead in California

(Special to The Star.)

BEATRICE, Neb., June 3—Word has been received here of the death of George D. Baker, 65, formerly of Beatrice, which occurred at his home at Los Angeles. He early developed talent for the stage and toured the country with various companies. For two seasons he was with a company of which Douglas Fairbanks was a member. He also later became director in the movies, dramatized a number of plays and some of the stars of filmdom he directed were Ethel Barrymore and Marion Davies. He retired five years ago. Surviving are his brothers, C. G. Baker of Beatrice and a sister, Mrs. Vesta Prophet of Los Angeles. Burial will be at that place.

Low Interest for Farmers National Grain Revealed

McCarl Says Millions Loaned At Eighth of One Per Cent.

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP)—An exhaustive investigation of the farm board and its related agencies has brought disclosure that the Farmers National Grain corporation borrowed millions from the government at one-eighth of 1 per cent, while farmers paid as high as 6 and 7 per cent for the money.

This and other facts were contained in a report to the senate on a long inquiry made by Comptroller General J. R. McCarl. Senator Norris had the study made and a special investigator is now analyzing McCarl's findings for the senate agriculture committee.

The Farmers National was organized under auspices of the farm board and dealt with the grain stabilization corporation, also created by the board for its grain price pegging enterprise.

McCarl said the Farmers National bought grain handling facilities from the Farmers Union Terminal Elevator association, St. Paul, for a price including $100,000 for good will." President of the St. Paul company was M. W. Thatcher, a director of the Farmers National, who subsequently resigned the directorship and was appointed "Washington representative" of the corporation at $12,000 a year. He still has the place.

This $100,000 was one item of a $600,000 total shown by the report to have been paid out for "good will" in the purchase of grain terminal properties.

McCarl said the Farmers National still owes the farm board $15,000,000. The one-eighth interest rate was made possible by the agriculture marketing act's provision that the interest to be charged co-operatives should not exceed the net yield to purchasers of government securities.

FIREMEN ELECTION.

WYMORE, Neb., June 3—The Wymore volunteer fire department has elected these officers: President, H. L. Anderson, chief, C. A. Lasher; assistant chief, Fred Holmes; secretary, O. Z. Brown.

Dalton Postmaster Refuses To Resign

Republican, Requested To Make Way For Democrat Hangs On After Expiration of Term.

DALTON, Neb., June 3—(AP)—The refusal of Postmaster Henry Blome, republican, to resign in favor of Don Dey Ermand, whose appointment was recommended by the county democratic committee, has stirred local political circles. A letter from the department asking Blome to resign met with refusal. Blome said he would not vacate the position until summarily dismissed.

Congressman Terry Carpenter in a letter to B. B. Hine, prominent Sidney democrat, said the order for Blome to quit the office probably would be forthcoming immediately. His term expired in January, but he has held office because patronage has been shelved in favor of vital legislation.

Blome, who was a leader of the farm holiday movement in western Nebraska, was accused of undue political activity. However, he denied that he took any part in the last election campaign.

Dey Ermand has made no statement but it is understood he favors changing the location of the postoffice as soon as he is installed. The office is now in one of Blome's buildings. Robert A. Barlow, chairman of the county central committee, said the committee had taken all action in its power when it recommended Dey Ermand's appointment.

ALLIED DRYS MAY DISBAND

Rev. Wyland Says Group Duplicates Work of Other Societies.

Plans for dissolution of the Allied Drys' organizations in Nebraska and consolidation of its activities with those of the Anti-saloon league and the W. C. T. U. were announced Saturday by Rev. B. F. Wyland. Rev. Wyland said he has resigned as president of the Allied Drys.

He explained that the various dry organizations at the present time are duplicating effort and expenditures, and that the dissolution of the Allied Drys is being sought in the interest of efficiency for the dry cause.

Rev. Wyland praised R. P. Hutton, superintendent of the Anti-saloon league, as a superior leader.

Omahans Not Opposed.

OMAHA, June 3—(AP)—No opposition is contemplated ere to dissolution plans of the Allied Dry organizations in Nebraska as announced at Lincoln today by Rev. B. F. Wyland, president of the group who resigned that office yesterday.

O. W. Osnes, Omaha attorney and state vice president, said that while there might be some question as to Rev. Mr. Wyland's authority to dissolve the organization, "there will be no opposition to the move."

WILL EMBRACE FOUR COUNTIES

North Platte Valley Producers to Ship Together.

KIMBALL, Neb., June 3—(AP)—Formation of a large co-operative marketing system for western Nebraska poultry raisers, with pooled selling planned for New York, Philadelphia and other eastern cities, today was under way with Scottsbluff, Banner, Kimball and Cheyenne county farmers tentatively lined up for membership.

H. V. Anderson of Henry and J. P. Ross, Scottsbluff county agent, are leading organization work and expect to have at least 200 panhandle poultry raisers aligned as permanent members when the initial shipment is made.

Meetings were held in Kimball and Sidney this week and enthusiastic response was reported. The aim of the marketing association is to ship at least one carload of eggs each week, with additional shipments during the heavy producing seasons. The plan on a smaller scale has been successfully followed in the North Platte valley through facilities of the Valley Co-operative Poultry Marketing association.

Diversification of farm products in this section of Nebraska has led to a growing interest in poultry production. During the past three years many farmers have derived their entire living expenses from the sale of eggs and poultry.

To Hold No Inquest In Spencer Death

Pedestrian Struck By Lincoln Car Near York Thought To Have Been Confused.

YORK, Neb., June 3—(AP)—There will not be an inquest, County Attorney John Riddell said, into the death of Arthur D. Spencer, about 60. Spencer was killed yesterday when struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. Mollie Hendrix of Lincoln.

The accident occurred at a turn on the S. Y. A. highway three miles west of York. Authorities expressed the belief that Spencer, having lost his glasses, became confused. A pair of thick lensed spectacles were found near the scene of the accident.

Sheriff A. E. Carter said he established communications with Spencer's wife at North Platte, and that the body would be sent there. Carter said Mrs. Spencer told him she and her husband had not lived together for some time. She lives in North Platte with her two sons.

Favors Light Fine For Harold Wilson

Contempt Charge Against Prohibition Administrator Upheld in Court of Appeals.

PHILADELPHIA, June 3—(AP)—Federal Judge John P. Nields of Wilmington must fine or imprison Harold D. Wilson, deputy prohibition administrator of Nebraska, on charges of contempt of court, but the United States Circuit Court of Appeals favors a light fine.

Upholding the contempt charges against Wilson, which grew out of his refusal to tell Judge Nields where he got a key to a club he raided while assigned to the Delaware district, the appellate court yesterday directed Judge Nields to change his order for Wilson's imprisonment "until he purged himself" of contempt, to a definite sentence.

The court suggested that since the case against the club had been dropped, justice might be served by imposition of a light fine.

Rheumatism Keeps King George Home On 68th Birthday

LONDON, June 3— (AP) —King George V observed his 68th birthday anniversary today but rheumatism in a shoulder prevented him from attending a glittering military pageant in his honor.

Rather, the Prince of Wales was deputized to represent his majesty at the trooping of the color, the annual function on the horse guards parade to which the king has been wont to ride, attired in uniform, from the palace along the mall with a gay retinue.

Except for the rheumatic attack, the king is in good health, and many prayers were offered for his continued well being. His ailing shoulder prevents him from wearing a uniform.

Two More Slain In Beer Warfare

NEW YORK, June 3 —(INS)— Beer warfare was credited today with two more victims—both allegedly aides of "Waxey" Gordon, reputed beer baron released on $75,000 bail on income tax evasion charges a few hours before the latest outburst of underworld battling.

At Passaic, N. J., Charles "Duke" Brady, reputed beer salesman, lieutenant of Gordon and horse racing "wire man," was machine-gunned to death in the heart of the business section as he stood conversing with Angelo Alba, 35. Alba was wounded in the arm by a hail of bullets from a black limousine which crept up a crowded street and loosed the barrage.

Shortly before Brady fell, the bullet-riddled body of Abe Durst, also a reputed aide of Gordon, was found beneath a blanket in an abandoned automobile in the Bronx. On Durst's cheek was a newly-inflicted "squealer's" brand, slashed by a sharp instrument.

SPEAKERS LAUD FARM AID ACTS

Refinancing and Price Boosting Plans Told At Banquet Here.

Legislative measures dealing with farm valuation and management were discussed by H. B. Porterfield, secretary to Governor Charles W. Bryan, Harvey Johnson, counsel for the federal land bank at Omaha, and Louis Clark, president of the Nebraska Mortgage Banker's association, at the banquet concluding the land valuation and management short course at the agricultural college. Over 100 farm managers, bankers, real estate dealers and insurance officials were in attendance at the banquet which was held in the Lincoln hotel.

Mr. Porterfield discussed in detail the provisions of the mortgage moratorium law, recently enacted by the state legislature. He declared that no one could yet foretell its effectiveness as its status was now being questioned by the state courts. He maintained that a great deal of its effectiveness would depend upon the general trend of the opinions handed down, even if the bill is ruled constitutional.

Depends On Courts.

"It seems to me," declared Mr. Porterfield," that the whole question resolves itself into whether or not the emergency is sufficient that the state may call upon its police power to put such a law into effect. The governor and the legislature thought the emergency sufficient, but the final decision rests with the courts."

Mr. Johnson analyzed in detail the farm loan phase of the recent federal farm relief bill. He declared that through this bill the land banks anticipated that they would have the opportunity of refinancing many of their loans and many now held by other agencies which desire that the loans be refinanced. He spoke of the provision in the bill which automatically reduces the interest rate on loans to farm banks to 4½ per cent for a period of five years, and characterized it as being a much needed bit of legislation.

"The enactment of the farm bill means more to the agricultural communities than anything that has happened during the past 50 years," declared Louis Clark. Mr. Clark was on the national committee, which included Henry A. Wallace, now secretary of agriculture, and Henry I. Harriman, president of the United States chamber of commerce, which sponsored some of the legislation.

Seek Pre-War Price Level.

Mr. Clark discussed in detail the effect of the plan on the state of Nebraska and the United States as a whole.

"What the new bill aims to do is this:" he said, "Allow the farmer to take a load of produce to market and exchange it for the same amount of merchandise as he received during the period of 1909 to 1914, when the country as a whole was enjoying good, normal times At the present time we have the shortest wheat crop in 30 years in prospect, which is, of course, helping to advance prices, but inasmuch as in an average year we have in the neighborhood of 150 to 200 million bushels of wheat to export, our prices with a normal crop would immediately drop to a world basis. Wheat is the tail that wags the dog," he continued. "Low-priced wheat means lower priced corn, which in turn carries down all agricultural commodity prices.

W. W. Burr, dean of the college of agriculture, presided over the evening meeting.

ODELL, Neb., June 3—Thieves entered the office of the Howell Lumber company office here Thursday night and escaped with $36 in cash and checks taken from the safe which had been left unlocked. Entrance was gained through a window.

Boy Hero Rewarded

BALTIMORE, June 3—(AP)—Charles A. Gentry, jr., had a new watch today because he rescued a kitten from a bonfire into which his playmates had thrown it.

Hearing of the 9-year-old boy's act, Miss Ellin Buckner of New York City came to Baltimore yesterday to give him the watch.

Labor Insists on Right to Organize

Rejection of Industrial Act to Be Asked Unless It Is Revised.

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP)—A warning that labor would urge rejection by congress of the national industrial recovery act should it be revised to deny labor the right to organize and bargain collectively was issued today by President William Green of the Federation of Labor.

The statement was made public as several hundred members of the National Association of Manufacturers convened to insist upon changes in the measure passed by the house, including the labor provisions.

"The manufacturers' association is willing that its members shall exercise the right to organize, to establish a closed shop, so far as employers are concerned, under the protection of the government, but they are unwilling to accord to labor the right to organize and to be represented by representatives of their own choosing," Green said.

"Such a position is indefensible. It is inconceivable that congress would grant to employers the right to fix prices, through a closed organization of employers, and deny their workers the right to organize."

Five Students Plead Not Guilty to Charge Of Burning U. S. Flag

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., June 3—(AP)—Five 19-year-old Amherst college freshmen appeared in district court today and pleaded not guilty to "publicly mutilating and treating contemptuously the flag of the United States."

The youths, who were arrested yesterday by state police after complaint had been made that they burned a flag during a communist meeting on the campus, are Henry E. Stanley of Providence, R. I.; Vernon Hall of Montclair, N. J.; George F. Gillet of Kenilworth, Ill., and Roger R. Wenderlich and Robert Lauren, both of New York.

The case was continued until June 9 for a hearing. The boys were permitted to remain under bail of $200 each.

Two boys were suspended from college yesterday. College authorities declined to announce their names. The authorities described the demonstration as a "mock communist meeting."

Ickes Tells Graduates They Are Stepping Into 'A Social Revolution'

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 3—(AP)—Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, told graduates of Washington & Jefferson college today that they are stepping from a college campus into "the midst of a social revolution."

"Men of my generation . . . are in no boastful spirit when we face an audience like this," he said. "Instead of offering you platitudinous advice we are standing before you and confessing, frankly and humbly, that we have made a mess of things.

"In the name of self-government we sardonically enacted laws only to break them openly and flagrantly. Prohibition statutes were an incitement to bootlegging. Income tax laws . . . were put into the books only to be evaded. We jeered at our legislative bodies; we scoffed at our courts."

Declaring that a new social order is in the making, Ickes told the graduates that "my generation needs your help."

NEW ANTHRAX CASES.

Two new cases of anthrax on Cedar county farms which were quarantined for this same cattle disease last year were reported Saturday by Dr. H. L. Feistner, state veterinarian. This brings the total number of farms under quarantine now to sixteen.

FACTORS IN WEALTH.

ADVANCES in security prices, which began shortly after Franklin D. Roosevelt entered the white house, are revealed vividly in reports of four Chicago estates. The rise in stocks brought about a gain of 34 million dollars in these estates. It will be seen, then, the actual results of ninety days of renewed confidence in the national administration.

The estates were those of Julius Rosenwald, who died January 6, 1932; William Wrigley, jr. who died January 26, 1932; Richard T. Crane, jr., who died November 7, 1931; and Joseph Leiter, who died April 12, 1932. The Chicago Tribune says the continued slump in stock values after the deaths of Mr. Rosenwald and Mr. Crane, combined with specific bequests made in their wills, and the necessity of paying federal and state taxes on the values of the days of their deaths, at one time almost had wiped out their fortunes. Mr. Rosenwald's estate consisted largely of one stock, which not only regained all of the losses suffered since his death, but now is more valuable actually than it was at the time. His holdings were listed at $15,823,725 on the day of his death. They shrunk to $7,054,647. At the start of this week, they again were worth $17,924,784. Other holdings were valued at $13,539,907 on the day he died, and they dwindled to $5,275,000, but now are worth $14,615,347.

It was the specific bequests and the taxes which threatened to wipe out the estate at the time securities were at their lowest ebb. Virtually the same condition was reflected in the estates of the other three men, which were not as large as that of Rosenwald.

What a whimsical thing is wealth!

In six colorful, dramatic months, the immense holdings of a man prudently and carefully invested, were threatened. It is impossible fully to describe the strange, human spectacle unfolded during the closing months of the Hoover administration. There was the uncontrollable stampede to hold, to hoard. People wanted to get their fingers on money—hard money—gold—to hide it away where they thought it would be secure. Investments which they had considered desirable lost all value in their eyes. The very highest grade securities went begging, for no one wanted them, no one was buying them, no one could be induced, no matter whether it was recognized they were far below their actual value, to place funds in them. That is the real story of the collapse of security values, and with security values, commodity prices.

We did not speak of it as a panic. Through the establishment of a federal reserve system, all such foolishness had been done away with. But that was what it was in its human factors, and it took weeks and months before it ran its course, before something of the hysteria, the absurd fear that led millions to injure themselves through hoarding and through dumping could be checked.

There is a danger in the feverish, speculative activity, which characterizes the stock market today. It is a danger that is ahead for, due to the severity of the collapse, scores of strong desirable stocks are not yet quoted in excess of their actual value. But no one should close his eyes to the belief that it is not speculation which has given such a buoyant tone to the stock market. Men are in there endeavoring to recoup their losses. They are buying on margin, sometimes grabbing off quick profits; sometimes riding along in the expectation of making a greater killing.

It was uncontrolled and uncontrollable speculation which factored largely in the troubles through which the nation passed these last three years. The losses suffered through it were staggering, and unless there is a great deal of caution yet to manifest itself, the same experience will be repeated. It is not the stock market which is going to pull the American people over the hill, urgent as was the need of inflating values after one of the most drastic collapses in American history. It is going to take work, planning, and careful living on the part of the public and that has nothing to do with the stock market.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS.

SENATOR BENNETT C. CLARK of Missouri has presented an amendment to the Glass banking reform bill, the purpose being to abolish postal savings banks. The object of the Missourian, he says, is to remove the government from competition with private banking institutions. The object may or not be justifiable, that not being the question for consideration just at this time.

What must be apparent to even a casual observer is that the putting of the postal savings banks out of business would result in increasing the deposits of other banks very little if any. People who place their money in the postal banks do so because they are the only banks in which they have complete confidence, and if they were deprived of such depositories it is quite likely that the money thus deposited would go into hiding: it would find its way into mattresses, tin cans and other such receptacles and do nobody any good.

Although the depositors in the postal banks form a great number in the aggregate, it must be remembered that they are comparatively few, taking all the banking accounts in the country into consideration, and it is not believed that they interfere to any great extent with other institutions.

It is a recognized fact that there is a certain percentage of people who have the utmost confidence in the federal government and mighty little in anything or anybody beside. These people depend upon Washington for everything, considering the government omnipresent, omniscient and omnipotent. That is the reason so many will violate state or local laws with impunity, while respecting those of the national government.

For the same reasons many will entrust their savings to the postal banks whereas they would place them with no other institution. As has been stated, these are comparatively few in number but as the public gets the use of these funds while they are thus deposited, and would not if they were hoarded or secreted, it is not believed that any considerable benefit would accrue to other banking institutions if those of the postal department were abolished.

THE ESSENCE OF AN EDUCATION.

DEAN THOMPSON of the University of Nebraska is eminently right in his statement that too much has been claimed in the past for the money value of education and not enough emphasis placed on its cultural aspect and the mental discipline and character training that it evolves.

It is a false standard to hold up to young people, Dean Thompson suggests, in picturing education to them as something whose worth is to be measured in dollars and cents. That is not its primary aim and purpose, although it is undeniably true that the educated man or woman is better equipped to make headway in the economic race with his fellows than if he had missed the advantages of modern schools.

The real and lasting benefit of an education lies in the satisfaction its possessor derives from his contact with other people; from an enlarged understanding of what goes on in the world; from his ability to reason out his own problems; and from the appreciation of history, drama, music, literature, art and the other intellectual pleasures open to those who intelligently seek them.

Persons studying for the practice of law, medicine, teaching, and other special lines have in view, of course the pursuit of those vocations as a means of livelihood, and to them an education means the foundation of their material well-being in later life. But even they would find their studies drab and uninspiring without generous intermixture of arts and sciences not directly related to the professions they expect to enter.

Any student may reasonably assume that in attaining a liberal education he is bettering himself in a practical way, as well as intellectually. In the same degree that he becomes a better citizen and member of society, he will be correspondingly fitted to make his own way in whatever sphere of usefulness he may choose. Quoting, perhaps not literally, a familiar injunction from a scriptural authority:

"Choose ye the better things, and all these others shall be added unto them."

THE CITY OF CRETE.

THE city council of Crete resolved this week to erect a sewage disposal plant at a cost of $35,000. Which action calls attention to the fact that the municipality upon the Blue takes second place to no other of its size either in Nebraska or any other state when it comes to progressiveness and enterprise or any other quality which goes to make a city a desirable place in which to live.

Every visitor to Crete is impressed with its beauty and apparent prosperity. Its homes are unusually commodious for a city of its population and whether they be humble or pretentious are surrounded by attractive and well-kept grounds, lending an air of refinement to the entire residence section and indicating an appreciation of the beautiful which is sadly lacking in some other places.

The city has a new, modern federal building, while its schools are of the most progressive character, housed in structures fully worthy of the purpose to which they are dedicated and of which the citizens are justly proud. As would at once be judged by the general appearance of the city, its business establishments would do credit to a much larger town and its merchants are in as close touch with modern methods as those of any community.

In Crete the community spirit is intense and vibrant. Everybody is for Crete and there is an unending friendly rivalry to see which citizen can do most or think first of the most desirable thing to be done. Cultural and discussion clubs exist in greater numbers than in many cities of much larger population, while social activities are never discontinued. The people keep in close touch with each other, and while enjoying themselves to an unusual extent, they never cease the quest for some manner in which their home town may be made more beautiful and attractive, as well as more prosperous.

Crete is surrounded by a rich agricultural country. Its people are frugal, but not parsimonious. They enjoy life and they know how to make life enjoyable.

THE CURIOUS KANSAS MENTALITY.

IT'S NOT going to be an easy task for the national government to carry out its public works program in a way to satisfy the many conflicting interests and desires of the people in different sections of the country.

Kansas is already furnishing an instance of the difficulties and complications which the government may expect to encounter. Ex-Governor Harry Woodring, now assistant secretary of war at Washington, was instrumental in getting tentative approval for a project in his home state as one of the first ones outlined. It contemplated the building of dams across the Kansas river and two or three of its tributaries, in order to form storage reservoirs that would hold back water in flood time and make it available for irrigation and power when needed, besides creating several lakes for the enjoyment of the people. This was all to be done at the expense of the United States treasury. It looked like a godsend to Kansas which was to get the benefit of these improvements and also have employment provided for thousands of its citizens. But are the Kansans unanimously for the scheme? Not on your life.

Comes an avalanche of protests from the upper Kaw valley on the ground that the damming of the streams will flood thousands of acres of farm land and take it out of production. Cities in the region, far from being satisfied over the proposed expenditure of millions of dollars in their territory, object that it would permanently deprive them of a part of the farm trade they now have, and thus prove injurious in the long run.

Everybody has supposed that one thing wrong with Kansas was that it had too much farm land in production, and that federal aid in any project to reduce the acreage would be heartily welcomed. This idea it seems, is erroneous. A large part of Kansas insists on its right to go right on overproducing and keeping down the prices of farm commodities.

It's a queer world, mates.

REMEMBER THE WICKERSHAM COMMITTEE.

BACK in the days when the republican elephant nodded its docile head over the happenings on capitol hill there existed a body known as the Wickersham committee. It was the purpose of this group to investigate law enforcement in the country with regard particularly to prohibition and to report its findings to the republican administration.

Columns of news matter were published in papers all over the country about this committee. After the existence of this investigating body had almost become a tradition, it was announced that the report was about to be disclosed. The stage was set to receive it. It was certain to be worth many more news columns and editorial writers sat poised over their typewriters ready to comment on it. In a series of reports it finally made its appearance. But the bombshell turned out to be a bubble and the nation went about its business unperturbed.

Although less than two years have passed since the report was made, the results of the investigation have been practically forgotten. People will long remember that a group known as the Wickersham committee existed, but if any practical benefit came of its work, it has been forgotten by now.

The happenings during these first few months of the democratic administration have swept many of the things that were considered big news of a year or so ago into oblivion. The Wickersham investigation is certainly a pink tea when compared to the dynamic disclosures being made by Ferdinand Pecora in the current Wall Street probe.

QUESTION.
Charleston, W. Va.

What are the prospects for the plain old-fashioned American business man who tries to do as he would be done by, goes to church on a Sunday and is faithful to his family ties?

ANSWER.

Just as bright as the promises of God. Character is always the basic essential, and if business men did not have it they would have to invent it. The idea that the rogue and the cheat are always in the saddle is sheer rubbish. Business leaders, by which is meant men and women occupying positions as major executives in organizations of such size as to be of more than local importance, are the props of our economic structure.

It has been estimated that about twenty-five thousand of these are nationally known in our country. Notwithstanding popular opinion to the contrary, they are neither the children of farmers nor of wage earners. More than 50 per cent of them are the sons of fathers who were also business executives. So it is possible that by the middle of this century more than two-thirds of the nation's commercial leaders will be recruited from the sons of business owners and executives.

In contact with them, however, is very much larger number of manufacturers, merchants and tradesmen who look to their upright and capable handling of commercial matters for guidance and a livelihood. Nor do they look in vain. Taken as a whole, business, as distinguished from speculative and parasitical pursuits, was never more ably or honestly conducted than it is today. You mention Technocracy with a note of alarm. Dismiss it. We are by no means at the end of our resources under the prevalent system, provided it is thoroughly sanitated.

QUESTION.

How would you define love from a psychological viewpoint?

ANSWER.

Love as a human emotion does not readily lend itself to analysis. Years ago I read Addington Symond's Essays entitled "In the Key of the Blue," in which he traces the historical development of the "grand passion" and examines its scope and function. To be frank, he left me with a sense of futility and dissatisfaction. Evidently your more extensive reading has not met your demands.

Neither can I, but perhaps another perspective will serve us both. If we regard love as a morality and not a merely natural feeling we can define it within more recognizable limits. That strange exotic creature Lafcadio Hearn seems to have realized this distinction. In his "Talks to Writers" he says: "To love one another is a moral experience, although this fact is very commonly overlooked."

Conceived as a powerful impulse to unselfish devotion, firmer ground is under the genuine lover's feet; but should he view it as the mere desire for the satisfaction of sexual instincts, then instead of being a genuine lover he becomes a sensualist bogged in animalism.

Contrast Plato's or Dante's ideal of love with the putrid notions about it portrayed in some modern and decadent "literature." I have often thought that the highest type of human love is created by a subconscious affinity which expresses itself in loyalty to the best there is in life for those we love. You doubtless know numerous instances of this spontaneous meeting of two hearts which afterward beat as one. Nothing more beautiful, honorable or blessed can elevate and bless human existence.

James Martneau, the sage and saint of Victorian Unitarianism, met the woman of his soul when he was seventeen. He waited for her as Jacob did for Rachel and died still adoring her when he was ninety-two. Mark Twain's mother started out at eighty-two to find the place where her deceased husband had courted her as a girl. Such love is stronger than death, outlasts time and has indestructible rights in Eternity.

QUESTION.
Brooklyn, N. Y.

How can a man be religious in a world which takes nine-tenths of his time and energy and forces him to do things he ought not to do?

ANSWER.

The man who does things he ought not to do is irreligious from the start. Dismiss the idea that there are two worlds divided by weekdays and Sundays, two lives to live, the one sacred, the other secular. No human being can be half slave to his worst side and half free on his best side.

The demand that a man shall keep religion out of his business is as futile as telling him to breathe only one day in seven. If he is sold to God the relation is valid always and everywhere. If he is not, he couldn't make the grade of goodness in heaven itself.

One might as well think of keeping the sunlight away from the flowers and expect them to grow as think that the spiritualities of life can be excluded from our constant activities. They are there for us to do what we choose with them. The responsibility of choice is therefore ours.

The conscience within a man radiates into all he is or does. It has no limits whether he is engaged in sweeping an office floor or cleaning up a politically dirty city. When your religion is dynamic and not static, it will dictate business honesty, domestic fidelity, public probity and absolute integrity in everything. The desk will become an altar and market place a shrine. Render to God His due and your difficulty will disappear. Fear Him so much that the fear of others will vanish, and your daily deeds will be dominated by a high sense of duty.

Diet and Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D., Author of "THE HUMAN BODY"

ARMY SURGEON EXPERIMENTS ON MAN'S DIGESTIVE ORGAN.

Just a hundred years ago there was published at Plattsburg, N. Y., a little book which is the greatest American medical classic. Its title is, "Experiments and Observations on the Gastric Juice and the Physiology of Digestion," and the author was William Beaumont, M. D., then a surgeon of the United States army.

Dr Clendening

The experiments and observations which he reported had begun on the 6th of June, 11 years before, when a young French-Canadian, named Alexis St. Martin, was shot in the abdomen by th accidental discharge of a shotgun. The accident occurred in the pioneer community of Fort Mackinac in northern Michigan. Dr. Beaumont, a young army surgeon, was the only physician available to attend the injured man.

In those days before aseptic surgery, and before anaesthetic, it was predicted that St. Martin would die. It was hardly believable that the outcome could be otherwise. But to everyone's surprise he recovered, bearing, however, the result of his experience in the form of an opening into his stomach. The edges of the stomach had grown to the edges of the abdominal wall, and the inside of his stomach could be seen and felt when his upper abdomen was exposed. He was known to the end of his life, which occurred 58 years later, in 1880, as the man with the lid on his stomach."

Many young doctors then and now would have missed the opportunity which presented itself to Dr. Beaumont. Instead, however of considering St. Martin a nuisance, he was inspired to use him as an experimental animal to study the action of the digestive juices of the stomach. For years he carried on experiments such as tying a piece of string to a piece of meat, inserting it into the hole in St. Martin's stomach, and pulling it out afterwards at varied intervals to see how far digestion had proceeded.

He proved by these experiments that the stomach secretes a definite digestive juice. That it digests practically nothing but proteins—meat, eggs, etc. That the reaction of the stomach contents is acid. Dr. Beaumont, with the aid of Dr. Dunglison, of the University of Virginia and Professor Silliman of Yale (both chemists), proved that the acidity was due to the presence of hydrochloric acid. He proved that the gastric juice is secreted in response to the appetite—to the smell and taste of food, and to the presence of food in the stomach.

Familiar as these statements are to us, they were fresh and particular at the time they were reported. Up to a hundred years ago no one—physician, physiologist, anatomist or specialist—had any idea excatly what was the cause of the many sensations in and associated with the stomach, of which patients complained. Considering the immense relief that has resulted to the millions of sufferers from dyspepsia over the entire world, they should observe this year and this month in some fitting way.

That St. Martin lived to the advanced age of 83, long surviving the healthy and vigorous Dr. Beaumont, is an indication that people get along very well even with a considerably damaged stomach.

Editor's Note: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

PURPOSE.

We plague ourselves with endless needs
We build our hopes and dreams on things;
We seek in muscle-straining deeds
A satisfaction prowess brings.
In pomp and pride
The world we stride
And call it failure to be meek,
While day by day
Along life's way
Are countless joys we need not seek.

So thick with wants we've sown our years
That few of us brief rest can find.
In running first success appears.
'Tis failure grim to lag behind.
Yet life is sweet
And all complete
For those who dare a slower pace.
While rest at night
And true delight
Lend beauty to the commonplace.

Who knows what God shall deem success?
Great wealth and fame and buildings tall
To which men turn for happiness
May not suit His design at all.
And it may be
That we shall see,
When time and toil on earth are through,
The will to share
Life's common care
Is all God wished from me and you.

PARAGRAPHS

By Robert Quillen.

The great job of the future is to subdue the East that wouldn't have bothered anybody if white men had let it alone.

We like those South Americans. When they fight for territory, they don't do it to end war or make the world safe for anything.

Don't expect anybody to be a "world statesman." To earn a bronze statue in one land, a statesman must accept the undying hatred of another.

Anyway, we've learned that a silk hat can't manage things any better than a peasant smock.

Wonderful man! He has reached the stage where he can occasionally see a truth if it doesn't threaten his pocketbook.

Americanism: Playing eighteen holes to build himself up; then playing the nineteenth to tear himself down.

Recent history of the dollar bill: First it became smaller, then it became scarcer and now it's becoming cheaper. What next?

Modern version: The meek shall inherit the dearth.

Yet every once in a while you run across a man who doesn't cuss when he hears the word "security."

That needle in a haystack simile has been revised to read: "It's just like looking for a safe investment."

James Truslow Adams calls the period between 1920 and 1930 "The Mad Decade." Please, mister, won't you tell us how to get crazy again?

You can tell whether that congressman is a veteran or newly elected. He's new if he says, "I remember —," instead of, "I have not been unmindful that —."

The youngsters of today don't believe in Santa Claus or the stork, but we know two or three who think that Mitchell will go to jail.

Correct this sentence: "We've learned the folly of war by bitter experience," said all the nations in chorus,"—so we're not going to fight any more."

Burgess Bedtime Stories

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Love and Squabbles

A squabble is, if you are near,
A most unpleasant thing to hear.
—Winsome Bluebird.

He peeped into all the houses and was promptly chased away.

Jenny Wren and Johnny Wren were very much in love with each other, but there were times when you never would have guessed it. To their neighbors in the Old Orchard it seemed at times as if they squabbled all day long. Johnny had arrived home first from the Sunny South where they had spent the winter. He told everybody he had arrived and how glad he was to be back. He sang so hard that he shook all over. That first day he spent much of his time visiting all his favorite places and singing.

Now, Johnny, like Jenny, is a busy-body. He has to be doing something. He peeped into all the houses and was promptly chased away from all that were already occupied. He peered into every nook and corner and crevice in the Old Orchard, stopping every few minutes to sing. Then he took possession of one of the houses Farmer Brown's Boy had made just for the Wrens and straightway began to fill it with twigs. All day long he hunted for and carried in sticks, stopping only to hunt for food and to sing.

So when Jenny Wren arrived a few days later he had that house just about filled. Were they glad to see each other? Indeed they were. It was a happy reunion. Johnny quite outdid himself singing, and there was a new note in his song. To pure happiness he had added love. Just as Johnny had done, Jenny had to investigate everything, and of course Johnny went along with her. Last of all they came to the house where Johnny had been so busy.

"My dear," said he, "I have the nest all built, ready for you to move right in."

Jenny poked her head in through the little round doorway and that was about all she could do for the sticks.

"Tut, tut,tut, tut, tut!" she scolded. "Do you cal lthis a nest!" Then she began to pull out and throw aside the sticks Johnny had worked so hard to put in there. "Tut,tut, tut,tut," she scolded. "How do you know I want this house, anyway?"

"But it is the best house in the Old Orchard. It is a new one," protested Johnny, picking up a stick and trying to put it back in the house.

Jenny snatched it from his bill and threw it aside. "Says you!" she retorted. "Am I to have nothing to say about where our nest shall be?"

"You can't find a better place," retorted Johnny, sharply.

"I can try," snapped Jenny. "Tut, tut, tut, tut, what a mess! What a mess!"

Johnny stopped to sing. Not even a squabble could keep him long from singing. Then, as Jenny pulled out more sticks and tossed them away, he became peevish again. "You don't know a good thing when you see it," said he.

"Don't I? Well, I know a bad thing when I see it!" snapped Jenny. "This is a mess."

"Well, if you don't want to live here you don't have to pull out all those sticks," protested Johnny.

"I want to see what the inside of this house looks like and I can't with all this rubbish in the way," retorted Jenny.

"It isn't rubbish," asserted Johnny.

"If it isn't I don't know what to call it," snapped Jenny, spitefully!

"Just hear those two squabble. Isn't it dreadful? They are a disgrace to the neighborhood," said Winsome Bluebird to Mrs. Winsome.

"Indeed they are," replied Mrs. Winsome. "People who squabble like that ought to live where there are no neighbors."

Just then Johnny Wren burst into song and it was plain to see that he was singing to Jenny Wren and it was equally plain to see that she was enjoying it. Winsome shook his head. "I guess," said he, "that there is no real love without a squabble."

Chapter 48.

THE COCKATOO AGAIN.

"Oh, I didn't dream the priest was Francis. The beard and all that would have changed him. He had been educated in a church school—and well educated. He knew how to manage the disguise. How and what to do."

After a helpless moment I said: "But what of your own half? You'll be obliged to prove yourself to his lawyer—there'll be arrangements. I think I'd better cable the lawyer immediately."

She nodded.

"Then this man calling himself Francis Tally must be actually in conspiracy with the Lovschiems. Also this charming substitue they've kept in waiting."

"Substitute?" said Sue, roused. "They have the substitute already?" I explained.

"And the point is," I finished, "we have got to hurry." Any plan now was dangerous for Sue. Ten millions instead of five. I said:

"I'm going to call one of the policemen to stay here with you. Then I'm going to find Lorn—"

"Lorn should have known the priest was Francis!" she cried.

"He didn't. He wasn't sure about this newcomer for the same reason. And then I want you to ring for Marianne and question her. I have a faint hope that Marcel told her what he had seen. I hate letting you out of my sight, but I've got to find Lorn."

I went to the door which led to the winding stairway and thus to the courtyard. Under the swaying light of the arch stood one of our guard and, after making sure I was unobserved, I called and beckoned to him, and once in my room he seemed to understand very sensibly what was wanted.

The corridors were as usual deserted. It was at the very door of Lorn's room that I met Grethe. She slid rather than walked out of it, closed it silently, and saw me.

"Well?" she said, and as I did not reply, she leaned nearer me and slid one smooth soft arm through mine and said: "Are you looking for me?"

I said grimly: "I'm looking for Lorn! What were you doing in his room?"

Without waiting for her reply I thrust her aside and flung open the door and looked about. The room was empty, although it looked singularly untidy. Madame Grethe was smiling a little: her green eyes were shining knowingly.

"Well?" she said again, her voice trailing upward.

"Where's Lorn?"

"Downstairs, I believe," she said coolly enough. "He was in the lobby with Lovschiem a few moments ago."

I was nearing the door to the lobby when I heard his voice, taut and sharp and strange:

"Sundean! Sundean! Hurry!"

I ran the last few steps.

They were both in the lobby—Lovschiem and Lorn. And Lorn had a gun in his hand, and it was trained straight at Lovschiem's fat paunch and Lovschiem was standing there just beside the desk with his jewel-eled hands lifted high in the air.

"You've got the revolver?"

I had it in my hand.

"Yes."

"Keep this man here while I get the police. Don't hesitate to shoot. He's the murderer."

"Lovschiem?"

"Yes, I've known it for some time, but I've got the proof now. From Marianne."

I said: "What is it?"

"His connection with Stravsky. She, the maid heard them talking the night Stravsky was killed. They were in the court. She heard—steady, there, Lovschiem!—she had heard Stravsky promise to get something for Lovschiem. Lovschiem had warned Stravsky to make no mistake this time. The thing was, of course, Miss Tally's token."

"Stravsky said he'd give it to Lovschiem manana. I'll call the police. Don't let him go, Sundean. Shoot to kill."

The door to the court whipped open and Lovschiem's terrified eyes shifted to me. This time the mumble was half coherent.

"I didn't—I'm not—I didn't—"

"What's all this?" It was Grethe from the lounge.

"They say I murdered them. They say I killed—" Lovschiem's fat, beringed hands were shaking and trembling there in the air.

"Stop that," I said sharply to Grethe, and she stopped her stealthy retreat. "Come back here. Stand over there."

She gave me a still look but she obeyed. She said calmly:

"You'd as well not make a move, Lovschiem. I think our friend is rather likely to shoot us."

It was very still in the small lobby while our eyes met and locked. Very still except for the small rustle of the cockatoo scrambling from his perch to the desk. From the corner of my eyes I could see him sidle toward his mistress.

She did not move or shift her eyes from mine as the bird caught her green sleeve and pulled himself very clumsily in a curious kind of hand-over-hand movement to her shoulder.

Pucci chuckled hoarsely and laid his wide bill alongside his mistress's warm red hair. But there was something wrong—something that didn't add—some quantity that was not right.

Pucci was pushing his bill into the red hair. He was pushing and pushing—no! He was pulling. He was pulling at something that was thin and white and folded and that finally came entirely from the mass of red hair. It was a thin folded paper.

Madame Grethe heard suddenly some small rustle, and she moved her head and cried, "Pucci!" in a strangled voice.

"Put down your hands, Lovschiem. Give me that paper, madame."

She did so. She did not hesitate, as I had known she would not. She took it gently and carefully from Pucci and put it in my hand.

The paper was what I thought it was.

A commotion of footsteps and voices arose outside, and the door was flung open and Lorn was there. Even in that hurried instant I was conscious of the singular look he gave us: it held surprise and a kind of disappointment and at the same time decision.

Lorn pointed at me and said something very sharp, and the police fell upon me, and gripped my arms.

"So," I said above things to Lorn. "So this is the reason You must supply them with a murderer."

"There's no use talking like that, "Sundean," said Lorn. "You can't defend yourself. They will find the poison in your room, where I found it and thus was convinced of your guilt."

I was dimly conscious that the man who had called himself Francis Tally had appeared in the doorway of the lounge.

"Madame," I said to Grethe, "ask these policemen to free my arms for a moment. I won't try to escape—I couldn't."

Then, before their eyes I brought out the envelope in which Francis Tally's last letter to his sister had been sent. And I had also a small irregular piece of wax which I had found in the landing where the body of Michael Stravsky had lain.

There was not a sound while I fitted the broken wax to the half of the seal which still remained on the envelope. The two pieces fitted exactly and made one.

I said to Lorn:

"You have killed and killed for the Tally millions."

"Take him away! Arrest him!"

"You killed Stravsky and you also killed Marcel, and you killed the priest. And when you killed Stravsky because you had witnessed the abduction and Sue's return and you thought Stravsky had got her token—when you killed Stravsky you broke this wax from the seal of the letter you were bringing Sue from her brother. It fell there. It's going to convict you.

"And you killed Marcel so he couldn't tell what he knew of you. And you killed the priest because you discovered he was the real Francis Tally and that he'd seen the real Sue and that spoiled your plan. You killed him, and that's where you got Sue's token, at last. Her brother had found it and taken it—perhaps to see if it matched his own. And you trapped yourself when you did that.

"That proved that there was someone else after the token. Someone besides the Lovschiems. For it was gone. Yet the Lovschiems did not have it. And it was not on the priest's body."

Grethe said in a still way: "It's true. It was in his room. I found it."

Lorn had shrunk into his brown coat; he was only shadowed eyes and chalk-yellow face, and he no longer screamed at the policemen.

KEEN INTEREST IN INDUSTRY CONTROL

Lincoln Manufacturers Will Attend Meetings at Which Codes To Be Formed.

Lincoln manufacturers are making plans to attend the national conferences of their groups to be held soon under the provisions of the national industrial recovery act, which is being enacted by congress. Three cities in which conferences already have been called are Chicago, Cincinnati and Kansas City. Lincoln will be represented at the latter place by J. C. Ridnour.

According to W. S. Whitten, Lincoln manufacturers are intensely interested in the provisions of the act, believing that it will have a material influence on the recovery of industry. The chamber is informed almost daily by the national organization of the progress of the measure, and changes. As soon as the information reaches Mr. Whitten it is transmitted to the heads of the manufacturing firms here.

The pending measure sets up an experiment for two years. It sets aside that portion of the anti-trust laws prohibiting agreements among competitors, in contemplation of voluntary pacts covering working hours, control of production, prices, employment and pension reserves, and numerous competitive problems.

46 JAPANESE DEAD IN MINE EXPLOSION

Harry L. West Wins Palladian Oratory

Speaker Against Military Training Awarded Trophy; Dale Weese Named Secretary of Gavel Club.

Harry L. West was victorious in the seventh annual James Hooper oratorical contest sponsored by the Palladian Gavel club of the University of Nebraska. The contest was held in Palladian hall in the Temple theater Friday evening.

West spoke on "Warriors on the campus," his entire speech being an indictment of compulsory military drill. He declared that there was no justification for its continuance in either the economic, moral, or physical reasons advanced by its friends.

"When a student speaks against compulsory drill," West said, "he is called un-American, communistic, and anything else radical by those supporting it. But they forget, that the red of human blood is far redder than the flag of communism. The only person they believe can be an unbiased judge on compulsory drill is an army officer whose economic well-being depends on its continuance."

Marjorie E. Filley, who spoke on "Character," was awarded second place and Kenneth G. Millett, whose speech was entitled "Who Wants Security" was awarded third. The other contestants were Vernon W. Filley, who spoke on "A Student Activity Tax," and Vera A. Emrich whose subject was "Philosophy of Home Economics."

Before the oratorical contest, the gavel club had held its annual business meeting at the University club. There they elected Dale E. Weese, Lincoln, to serve as secretary-treasurer for a five year term. All the other officers of the club hold over this year.

ROOSEVELT ASKS SOLONS LEAVE

Urges Adjournment of Congress Within Week.

WASHINGTON, June 3— (AP) — President Roosevelt bestirred congressional leaders today to hurry things up, sticking to his original request for adjournment June 10 despite real obstacles in the road.

Regardless of sharp-edge controversies in the way, he has told leaders again that he wants congress out before the London conference begins, and that he wants to leave the capital June 16 to take a rest in Maine.

Most of the democratic pilots were doubtful the seven days he left them would suffice, even though the house expects to be all clear by Wednesday night, and the senate is to start night sessions right away. But many believed one extra week would do, bringing adjournment on the 17th.

The senate late Friday passed the independent offices appropriation, but only after a $170,000,000 increase in veterans' funds had been voted and, by the margin of Vice President Garner's vote, a compromise limit of 25 per cent had been put on all cuts in World war service-connected disability compensation and pensions of Spanish war veterans.

This was estimated to make the veterans' savings $250,000,000 a year instead of the $400,000,000 originally ordered by the president, but since he is already planning upward revision of those economies which are working undue hardship, and since the 25 per cent cuts may not require spending the whole $170,000,000 added, the bill may wind up not so far out of line. It still has to be dealth with in conference with the house.

This anti-economy upthrust developed, however, just as the president was making known belief that the goal of a billion dollar expenditure reduction—25 per cent—was being reached. To what extent the senate action may break down redemption of his campaign promise remained to be developed.

Flagman Trying To Stop Traffic at Rail Crossing Hit By Car

Struck by an automobile as he stepped into the street to warn approaching automobiles, Samuel McKie, Rock Island flagman at Twentieth and O streets, suffered severe injuries to his scalp and one knee late Friday night. McKie was attended at the Lincoln General hospital by Dr. W. Allan Campbell and later taken to his home, 2927 Holdrege street. Colletus Smith, 21, 5202 Greenwood avenue, driver of the car, told police he failed to see McKie as he stepped into the street. A freight train was pulling out of the station.

Financial Markets Stumble Over Profit-Taking Barriers And Price Declines Are General

Stock Exchange Heavy at Close

Late Rallies Retrieve Some of Earlier Losses; Sales 3,800,000.

NEW YORK, June 3—(AP)—Financial markets tumbled over profit taking barriers today and prices declines were general in both stocks and staples. Late rallying efforts in leading shares retrieved some of the earlier losses, but the close was rather heavy. Trading volume was unusually large, transactions approximating 3,800,000 shares.

The stock market started off at a fast pace, blocks of 1,000 to 12,000 shares changing hands. Losses of 1 to 3 or more points were suffered by leading issues following their climb yesterday to the highest levels since 1931. Rails and utilities resisted for a while, but they, too, slid off when supporting orders in other divisions failed to bring any substantial recovery.

Wheat, corn and cotton drooped with stocks and bar silver lost ¼ of a cent at 35½ cents an ounce. Wheat declines approximated a cent and corn eased around ½ a cent. Cotton was particularly heavy, losing 90 cents to $1.30 a bale. Bonds were fairly steady, although some of the more speculative loans were a trifle reactionary. Foreign exchanges were comparatively steady.

Stocks apparently ignored the report on freight car loadings for the week ended May 27, which showed an advance of 9,591 over the previous week to a total of 541,309, or 20,060 ahead of the similar week in 1932. The increase in traffic, however, was about according to previous estimates.

Share losers of 1 to around 3 points included American Can, Corn Products, U. S. Steel, Drug, Chrysler, Santa Fe, McIntyre Porcupine, Anaconda, American Telephone, Westinghouse, Montgomery Word, Case, Du Pont, Consolidated Gas, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Delaware & Hudson, Union Pacific, American Tobacco B, New York Central and Sears Roebuck. Allied Chemical steadied and National Distillers and Loew's rallied.

The financial district was especially interested in the overnight news from Washington on the close vote by which the senate finance committee favored the industries control feature of the administration's national recovery bill. While this feature was retained, the fact that the committee voted to eliminate the provision giving the president licensing power over industries was the subject of much discussion in the banking sector.

At the same time speculative enthusiasm appeared slightly dampened by a financial ticker report from the capital that the administration was closely watching the trend of prices on the stock exchange here with the view that the recent movement of shares and commodities has been unusually rapid. This dispatch intimated that some steps might be taken to warn against speculative frenzy which would tend to put share and commodity prices out of bounds and thus interfere with the government's plans for a steady and sound recovery.

General business and trade news continued favorable for the market. Steel and electric power output were showing resistance to seasonal declines and automobile production was at its top level for the year.

Details of the conclusions reached in Berlin at the session of Germany's creditors indicated that the action to be taken was not a moratorium, as first reported in Wall street, but suspension of the transfer of the service payments on the Reich's foreign private debts. As the financial community interprets the situation, the move is dictated by the Reichsbank's desire to protect its gold reserves. Free reserves of gold and foreign currencies still at the disposal of the Reichsbank have dropped to a low level, it was reported.

Because of the Memorial day holiday automobile production for the week ended June 3, as estimated by Cram, was approximately 40,484 units, a decrease of 12,076 from the previous total. Inasmuch as daily production schedules remained about the same, no other factor than the holiday was cited by way of explanation for the decline.

The dollar was slightly weaker in early dealings today. Sterling opened at $4.01½, an increase of 1¼ cents. French francs stood at 4.67 cents, a gain of half a point.

Omaha Produce.

OMAHA, Neb., June 3—(AP)—Eggs were lower on the Omaha produce market today, mostly $2.50 per case, loss-off delivered in new cases. This is about the lowest price this season, and at a time when prices generally advance following the heavy run early in the season.

Poultry was also lower in some quarters. Dairy produce was generally unchanged.

Chicago Grain Prices Recede

Wheat Closes Nervous, 1⅜ to 1⅝ Under Friday's Finish.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 3—(AP)—Jolted by statements attributed to Secretary Wallace that speculative price advances of late had interfered with operation of the farm relief act, grain prices receded today.

Another statement ascribed to Secretary Wallace indicated there would be no control measures for the 1933 wheat crop. Wheat harvest was reported as having started at several points in Kansas, but there were also intimations that the yield would prove disappointing.

Wheat closed nervous, 1⅜ to 1⅝ cents under yesterday's finish, July 72⅛@¼c, September 74⅛@74⅛c. Corn ½ to ¾ cent down, July 44⅜c, September, 46¾@⅞c. Oats ⅛ to ½ cent off, and provisions unchanged to 20 cents decline.

Downturns in grain values early today followed reports that some provisions of the farm relief act would not be applied to this year's wheat crop. There was also talk that until such time as inflation news became more decisive, a seasonal tendency to lower prices was likely to prevail. Opening unchanged to ½ cent off, wheat afterward sagged all around. Corn also started unchanged to ½ cent down, and then underwent a general setback.

A fall of about 1½ cents in wheat prices took place before weakness was checked. Houses with eastern connections were the principal sellers. Breaks in prices of securities had a noticeable effect on all grains. Favorable reports regarding progress of the spring wheat crop, both American and Canadian, were a further incentive to sell.

Washington official statements regarding speculative advances in stocks, cotton and grain were construed by many traders as a disturbing influence, manifestly bringing about restriction of buying power. Under such circumstances, friends of higher prices made little headway with assertions that the wheat market of late had risen largely on account of natural conditions and because of crop losses sustained or prospective. For the time being, rallies effected in wheat were only fractional. Corn and oats followed wheat market changes.

Provisions held about steady, responsive to behavior of hog values.

After mid-session, wheat was 1 to 1⅛ cents under yesterday's finish and corn was ⅜ to ¾ cent down.

Cor nreceipts in Chicago today totaled 256 cars, a week ago 151, and a year ago 54.

Favorable weather for completion of field work as well as the Washington developments had a depressing effect on corn. Country offerings to arrive were not large. Omaha reported that there were indications of a letup in the movement from west of the Missouri river.

GRAIN NOTES

CHICAGO, June 3—(AP)—News from two sources outside wheat producing areas today was studied by the grain trade for possible effect it may have on prices.

In Washington the administration announced late yesterday that it is too late to put into effect the farm adjustment act on this year's wheat crop, though it is still considering employing it to help corn and other commodities. The development was expected as, with harvesting already under way in some sections, it was considered too late to do anything for the 1933 crop under the act.

From London came the news Australia is showing a more favorable attitude toward the American plan for restriction of wheat acreage. Argentine delegates to the four-power wheat conference there also viewed the plan approvingly. Canadian delegates would not comment, pending arrival of Premier Bennett for the economic conference.

With the public largely transferring it attention to stocks, the market was listless yesterday. Prices on both corn and wheat fluctuated uncertainly over a narrow range and closed slightly off.

Continued favorable wheat crop reports from the American and Canadian northwest and of suitable weather for completion of corn planting over the corn belt contributed to the decline.

NEW YORK BOND REVIEW.

NEW YORK, June 3—(AP)—Bonds rounded out the week with another display of strength today in many of the secondary issues. The domestic list as a whole was firm. There were a few fairly sharp recessions in issues which compiled big advances yesterday. Trading continued in heavy volume.

The more speculative end of the rail group provided a number of strong spots, notably Allegheny 5s, Illinois Central 4¾s, Nickel Plate 4½s, Erie 5s, and Missouri Pacific 5s. Some of the prime rails also picked up a little ground.

The industrial list was a bit spotty owing to heavy profit taking in some of the week's leaders.

Utility loans also showed a mixed trend. U. S. governments again moved in a narrow range and foreign loans were featured by a sharp break in German issues.

NEW YORK CURB REVIEW.

NEW YORK, June 3—(AP)—The curb market lost much of its steam today as traders took profits over a wide list of issues which advanced sharply in the previous session.

A few industrial specialties continued to push their way to new tops, but the buying power showed nothing like the vitality of recent sessions.

Aluminum Co. of America dropped 2 points, Gulf Oil 1, Newmont Mining 1, Standard Oil of Indiana nearly 2, and New Jersey Zinc 1.

Stocks which carried the burden of the advancing trend included General Tire & Rubber, which rose 3, Glen Alden Coal up 1, Nevada-California Electric up 5, Niles-Bement-Pond up 1, Parker Rustproof up 2 and Singer Manufacturing up about 3.

Utilities gained new high levels in the early trading but gave ground under second hour realizing. American Gas & Electric dropped a couple of points to 39, its previous closing. Electric Bond & Share dipped more than a point but held even with the previous final.

N. Y. Exchanges Close.

NEW YORK, June 3—(AP)—The coffee and sugar exchange will remain closed on Saturdays during the months of June, July, August and September.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 3—(AP)—The hog market closed the week today with more than a trace of strength and prices were called fully steady with Friday. Most of the good hogs on sale sold at $4.90 to $5.00 with a few choice animals at $5.05 the top.

Packers accounted for 7,000 of the 8,000 in the run on direct billing and shippers and small operators took most of the remainder. Yesterday's upward rush carried the market back to within a dime of the close last week when the top on Saturday was $5.15.

Receipts were somewhat smaller than expected and only two-thirds the size of last Saturday's run. Trade was active.

Cattle were nominally steady at levels ranging from 15 to 35 cents above last week's peak, and at new highs since last December.

Sheep were also nominally steady with all of the week's early declines recovered.

Closing quotations were at the lowest of the day on most positions with the tone barely steady at net declines of 18 to 26 points.

Muny Gas and Coal Books Transferred

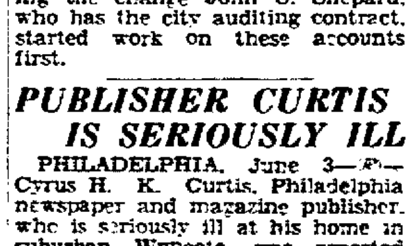

Caring for the accounts of the Municipal gasoline and coal business is to be transferred to Mrs. Nita Paul, secretary to Commissioner A. C. Harm, it was learned Saturday. For a number of years, Miss Helen Stein, secretary in the legal department, has had charge of the books. Preparatory to making the change John C. Shepard, who has the city auditing contract, started work on these accounts first.

PUBLISHER CURTIS IS SERIOUSLY ILL

PHILADELPHIA, June 3—(AP)—Cyrus H. K. Curtis, Philadelphia newspaper and magazine publisher, who is seriously ill at his home in suburban Wyncote, was reported today to be "holding his own."

A member of the Curtis household said the publisher had spent a "fairly good" night and that his condition was about the same.

Stricken with a heart attack in May last year, he has been ailing since and yesterday was reported very ill. He will be 83 years old June 18.

LEFTY REVEALS HURLING SECRET

Work and Lots of It Is Answer to Grove's Efficiency.

BY PAT ROBINSON.

NEW YORK, June 3—(INS)—Robert Moses Grove, who is by popular concept the greatest left-hand pitcher in the country, today revealed the secret of his ability to pitch every day. Lefty has been in nine of the Athletics' last 11 games, four of which he won and four others he was credited with saving.

"Work and plenty of it is the recipe," said the long, lean southpaw, as he took the field against the Yanks. "If I have a rubber arm, as they say, it's because I made it that way.

"The trouble with most pitchers who find themselves wilting in the late innings of a game is that they don't pitch enough. It must have been a lazy man who first put out the idea that a pitcher had to conserve his strength.

"That's a joke. Walter Johnson used to pitch nearly every day and look how long he lasted. I, myself, have been pitching 14 years and my arm is stronger than ever now."

"That's right," chimed in Catcher Mickey Cochrane. "These once-in four-day pitchers ought to be made to pay to get in the park. Why, even when Lefty is taking his regular turn, he pitches a lot every day between games."

Baseball's Daily Drama

The hero—Vernon Gomez, Yankees.

Set American league record for season by striking out 13 batters in eight innings against Athletics, winning, 5 to 4.

The goat—Lefty Grove, Athletics. His wild pitch let in winning run.

GORILLAS FIRST IN CINDER MEET

MILWAUKEE, June 3—(INS)—Pittsburgh, Kas, Teachers' college last night won the eighth annual Central Intercollegiate conference track and field meet at Marquette stadium, the feature of which was the record-breaking performance of Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette's negro sprinter, in the 220-yard dash.

The negro Olympic sprinter was timed in 21.2 seconds around a turn in his world record performance in the 220. This victory, combined with a first place in the century, gave Metcalfe high point honors. He won the 100-yard dash in 9.5.

The Kansas team finished with a total of 38 points, 10 more than Marquette, defending champions. Two hundred athletes from 20 institutions participated in the meet. Michigan State was third with 20 points and University of Wisconsin scored 18 points for fourth.

Wood Springs Upset In Defeat of Vines

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 3—(INS)—Sidney B. Wood, jr., erratic New York star who met George Lott of Chicago in the singles final of the Dixie invitation tournament today, may yet win a place on the U. S. Davis cup team.

Wood, passed up by the Davis cup committee in its tentative selection, turned in one of the prize upsets of the season yesterday by eliminating Ellsworth Vines, national and Wimbledon champion, in their semi-final match. After losing the first two sets, Wood rallied gamely to conquer his old rival by a score of 2-6, 1-6, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4, when the tall Californian became careless and let down.

Lott paid off an old score by defeating Cliff Sutter, ranking player of the south, in the other semi-final, 7-5, 5-7, 6-2, 0-6, 6-4.

COURT SETS ASIDE JUDGMENT V. BOSS

CHICAGO, June 3—(AP)—A $10,000 verdict returned recently by default against Harley Boss, first baseman of the Cleveland American league baseball team, has been set aside by Circuit Judge Martin Finneran and the case reopened, with a new hearing set for June 19.

The case grew out of charges made by Miss Lillian Eloise Mitchell, 22, Chicago, that Boss assaulted her and attempted to attack her in a Cleveland hotel last April 19. She sued for $50,000 damages.

Yesterday, Attorney William J. McGah, counsel for Boss, told the court the ball player had not known of the hearing and that he wished to make a defense. Counsel for the plaintiff then agreed to reopen the case.

DUEL RENEWED ON BELMONT COURSE

NEW YORK, June 3—(INS)—Cornelius Vanderbilt's great thoroughbred Equipoise, seeking the championship of the handicap division, rules a four to five favorite to conquer James Butler's questionnaire, one of the real turf heroes of the past few years, in their long-awaited duel at Belmont park this afternoon.

Seven other high-class performers are entered for the fortieth renewal of the Metropolitan Handicap, but victory in the mile classic is generally believed to lie between Equipoise, winner of the event last year, and the game Questionnaire, which captured the Metropolitan in 1931.

'Pretty Boy' Floyd's Brother is Arrested

WEWOKA, Okla., June 3—(AP)—Bradley Floyd, brother of Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, notorious bandit leader, and two companions, "Blackie" Smalley and Troy Keesee, were arrested today at the former's home near Seminole and jailed. The elusive gang leader and Ivan Reichita, another robber suspect, escaped capture.

Helen Jacobs Wins

AUTEUIL, France, June 3—(AP)—Helen Jacobs, United States champion, today entered the semi-final round of the French hard court tennis championships, defeating Jacqueline Goldschmidt, French indoor titleholder, 1-6, 6-1, 6-3. She will meet Mme. Rene Mathieu, No. 1 ranking French player, in the next round.

POPE PIUS ACTS AGAINST SPAIN

Government Excommunicated for Signing Anti-Catholic Decrees.

VATICAN CITY, June 3—(AP)—The entire government of Spain has been automatically excommunicated from the Catholic church for signing anti-Catholic decrees, the vatican state department announced today after Pope Pius had issued a surprise encyclical declaring that new Spanish religious laws constituted a grievous attack on the church.

The department explained that no decree of excommunication will be proclaimed because the acts committed by the Spanish government come automatically under the provisio nof canon law.

When diplomatic circles read the encyclical they characterized it as "a declaration of spiritual war" and said that the breaking off of diplomatic relations was inevitable.

(A religious congregation law was published in Madrid today changing religious order to civil societies and turning art treasures worth millions of dollars over to the state. The Spanish bishops and archbishops called the new law "infamous" and "oppressive.")

Eight Charges

The pope made eight charges against the republic.

One, was the separation of the church and the state, which was described as being a "most grievous error."

Two, the Catholic religion has an odious watch set over its teachings in schools; the exercise of worship, religious processions, the administration of sacraments for the dying, and services for the dead were hampered.

Three, the church was stripped of all property and forced to pay a tax.

Four, churches were declared the property of the state.

Five, religious congregations were deprived of the right to teach.

Six, religious orders were suppressed which took a vow of obedience to authority other than the state.

Seven, a blo was aimed at the supreme authority of the church by the declaration that the "authority of a vicar of Jesus Christ is foreign to the Spanish nation."

Eight, religious buildings were seized in order to establish lay schools.

Ralph Bower Dies Of Heart Attack

ST. PAUL, Neb., June 3—(AP)—Ralph Bower, 54, for fifteen years manager and butter maker at St. Paul Co-Op Dairy association, was found dead in the boiler room of the creamery this morning. Death was attributed to heart disease. He was starting a fire in the boiler when he became ill. The body was found by James Cooper, an employe. Bower is survived by his widow and a daughter. Funeral services will be held Monday.

WOMAN GETS HER WISH TO EAT IN THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP)—A woman of the plain people, fulfilling a life long wish, walked up the white house front steps today and was welcomed as a luncheon guest.

She was Mrs. Pattie Willis South, 81, of Nicholasville, Ky., who wrote Mrs. Roosevelt that she wanted a meal in the white house "if it was only bread and milk."

Tall, slender, and talkative, she appeared enjoying it to the full.

ROOSEVELT MAY URGE STATES TO LEGALIZE LIQUOR

Democratic Leaders Ask President to Appeal To Voters.

WASHINGTO . June 3 — (AP) — President Roosevelt is expected by democratic leaders to make a direct appeal to the states to ratify the reepal of the Eighteenth amendment.

Members of congress from doubtful and dry states have urged the chief executive to make a personal call for action, and they have gained the impression that he will do so shortly.

His appeal, these members said, would be based upon the pledges of president and party during the campaign, and would stress the importance, already mentioned by the president in a message to congress, of obtaining additional federal revenue from liquor taxes.

Farley Launches Drive.

Mr. Roosevelt had obtained a provision in the tax program of the industrial recovery bill permitting him to remove the increased levies in the event of the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment.

Furthermore, Postmaster General James A. Farley, who is chairman of the democratic national committee, has already launched a party drive to speed repeal.

But all this is not regarded as enough by many of the congressmen who have shifted their votes from dry to wet in the past three years. They are insisting that more persuasion is needed to win the necessary thirty-six states.

Eight States Vote in June.

Voters in eight states now are on record for repeal. Eight more states vote this month, and on July 18, Alabama votes, the first southern state to be heard from.

Speed has been urged on the president because on Monday Illinois voters cast their ballots, and Indiana, until last year a dry state, votes Tuesday.

Midwestern democrats are anxious for Indiana to vote for repeal and feel that a word from Mr. Roosevelt would be all that is necessary. Southern democratic wets are as equally anxious for him to speak before Alabama leads the way in Dixie.

Rainey Estimates Revenue.

Speaker Rainey said experts already had figured that in the event of repeal $100,000,000 in tariff revenues would be obtained annually for three years above the anticipated $450,000,000 from internal revenue liquor taxes.

"There is not enough aged whisky on hand in this country to last three months," he said. "So, our importations would be large. The experts figure that from the $5 import tax, additional revenue of $100,000,000 will be received.

"This ought to appeal to the taxpayers and should expedite ratification of repeal."

State Not Required Furnish Blanks For Beer Applications

The state will not be required to furnish blank forms for use in licensing places to sell beer, Attorney General Paul F Good ruled Saturday in an opinion addressed to Director D F Felton of the agriculture department. Felton feared the state would be put to considerable expense in furnishing application and license blanks to cities and counties.

Good says the beer law merely requires the state department to draw up and authorize a form which the licensing officials of the various governmental bodies shall use.

Beer brewed in Nebraska for sale in other states may be stored wherever designated in the permit issued by the governor but the beverage made in other states cannot be stored in Nebraska, Attorney General Paul Good held in another opinion given out Saturday.

The Omaha Cold Storage Co. has asked whether it is permissible to store beer in its plant for shipment out of the state under the brewers' manufacturing law passed by the legislature. This law permits manufacture of beer for sale outside of the state prior to taking effect of the Nebraska beer law on August 10.

Good holds that the place of storage of the beer must be designated in the permit issued by the governor but that there are no restrictions as to where this place may be. The attorney general holds, however, that the law does hot contemplated storage in Nebraska of beer manufactured outside of Nebraska.

CALIFORNIA OIL BLAST AND FIRE FATAL TO SEVEN

Disaster Hits Rich Petroleum Producing Area at Signal Hill.

SIGNAL HILL, Cal., June 3—(AP)—The "richest little city in the world" today appraised the cost of its first catastrophe, an explosion and fire which blackened an area of four square blocks, killed seven persons, sent 50 more to hospitals and caused damage of several hundred thousands of dollars.

Rescue workers searched throughout the night for additional bodies, but only two persons definitely were reported missing. Of those in the hospitals, none was expected to die of injuries.

Latent power in the "black gold" gushing from Signal Hill — which only 12 years ago was merely a cucumber patch—became a roaring inferno as the compression chamber at the refinery on Richfield Oil company properties exploded. Gas rushed from the tank enveloping the field in fire.

At Maywood, ten miles from Signal Hill, the explosion was felt with such force that an earthquake alarm was sounded and schools were emptied.

The List Of Dead.

The dead:

Duke Gaughan, Bellflower; Ed Weller, Anaheim; Charles Cope, Long Beach; C. S. Brown, Fullerton; J. L. Shumway, Bellflower, Mrs. Lotte Carlyon, Long Beach; her daughter, Marilyn, 8.

The men—all employes of the Richfield company—were trapped in the company absorption plant. Four of them were credited with sacrificing their lives in an effort to prevent the fire.

Only the desperate efforts of 500 men, working in the hot glare of the flames, prevented oil flowing from broken storage vats from igniting and spreading fire to other sections of the oil field and residential areas. They built dirt dikes to divert the oil.

50 Homes Damaged.

The concussion destroyed or badly damaged 50 residences in the vicinity. The explosion hurled employes of the company to the ground. The flaming oil sprayed over them.

Derricks toppled. Large storage tanks, with capacities up to 2,500 barrels, popped open and became prey to the flames. Fire blazed out of great, black plumes of smoke that blotted out the sky.

Signal Hill, Long Beach, Wilmington and Los Angeles fire departments answered emergency calls. From navy ships in the harbor came squads of Blue Jackets to aid in rescue work. For hours the inferno defied efforts to penetrate the area, but 12 hours later only the tops of some of the domed derricks sputtered red.

Youth Hikes To Lincoln To Get Bryan Autograph

Veatch Has Collected Names of Twenty-six Governors.

After sleeping in Antelope park Friday night, a tow-headed hitch hiker was in the Nebraska capitol early Saturday morning to get the signature of Gov. Charles W. Bryan to include in his autograph collection which has the names of twenty-six governors.

Because of Governor Bryan's illness, the 21-year-old St. Louis youth, Victor Veatch, had to be content wtih getting the state seal and the signatures of Secretary of State Harry Swanson and Secretary H. B. Porterfield to the governor. He could have sent his autograph book to the mansion for signature but he doesn't do that even for the president of the United States.

Franklin D. Roosevelt's signature was gained after he had camped around the president's office for six days, Veatch recalled Saturday. "They finally let me in to get his signature just to get rid of me, I guess,' 'the youth declared.

Hull, Dern Signed.

While in Washington the second week of May, Veatch also got the signatures of Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Secretary of War Dern among others. He valued Dern's signature because he had previously obtained his autograph as the governor of Utah.

Veatch, an orphan who has been been hitchhiking since he has been unable to find work in the last two years, tried to get a job in the reforestation corps from the president. Roosevelt informed him, however, that the jobs were open only to those who have dependents and so Veatch contained his hitchhiking career.

The youth came to Lincoln Friday from Topeka, Kas., where Gov. Alf Landon kept him cooling his heels for an hour and a half before signing the autograph book. He spent the night sleeping near the zoo in Antelope park.

Veatch says he does no panhandling to get food. He works for his meals in restaurants wherever possible. His expenditures in May totaled $1.21, and his cash resources usually total about 10 cents.

The next destination of Veatch is Des Moines, where he expects to go Monday. Then he'll visit other capitols in the midwest and head west, with a Fourth of July hike up Pike's peak as one of his main goals.

Allows Old Claims For Clipping Service

State Auditor Price, who announced on April 8 that all state officials, departments, and institutions using press bureau clipping service would have to pay for it thereafter out of their own personal funds, is allowing several claims of that kind for prior periods and drawing warrants to cover them; but he adheres to his decision not to pay any such bills in future.

Warrants have just been issued for these claims:

[illegible] Allowed $5 for part of April and $10 for March, $15 in all, rejected $15 for three weeks in April.

Governor's office—Allowed $5 for March and $5 for April.

State superintendent—Allowed $10 for March and $2.50 for first week of April.

Secretary of state—Allowed $7.50 for January, February and March.

Board of control—Allowed $3.00 for first part of April.

Former Kaiser's Grandson Is Wed To a Commoner

Ex-German Ruler Asks Royalty to Stay Away From Ceremony.

BONN, Germany, June 3—(AP)—Hallowed Hohenzollern tradition, a rigid "house law" since the fifteenth century, was broken today by the marriage of former Prince Wilhelm of Prussia to Dorothea Von Salviati, a vivacious 25-year-old girl of "unequal" birth.

The prince, who will be 27 July 4, once was in line for the German throne, but by the marriage he may forfeit all his chances if the dynasty should return to power.

The civil ceremony was performed in the city hall this morning in the presence of two witnesses, the bride's brother, Col. Von Salviati, and one of the bridegroom's friends. The religious ceremony followed at the castle church and was of the simplest character with a company of steel helmeters forming a guard of honor.

Former Kaiser Disappointed.

The former Kaiser Wilhelm, feeling that his grandson had violated a pledge he assumed on attaining his majority, requested members of the royal family to stay away from the wedding.

Handsome Wilhelm, eldest son of the former crown prince, and Fraulein Von Salviati, who is of Italian descent, responded to ovations from the porch of the villa of the latter's parents.

The romance of Wilhelm and Dorothea dates from their student days in Bonn university, where he matriculated in 1926.

Since, Wilhelm has been engaged in farming and managing one of the large family estates at Sternalitz, in German Upper Silesia, where they plan to make their home.

The bride, like her brothers, is an enthusiastic Hitlerite.

Wilhelm, whose full name is Wilhelm Friedrich Franz Josef Olaf, is a Steel Helmet battalion leader.

Three Damage Suits Appealed Saturday To Supreme Court

Suits for damages against North Platte and Thayer county were among three cases appealed to the Supreme court Saturday.

Mildred Gates won a $300 verdict in District court against North Platte, which the city is appealing to the high tribunal. She sued for $1,565 claiming she suffered injuries to her leg when a manhole cover broke as she stepped upon it.

George Brooks is appealing from dismissal of his suit against Thayer county. He is attempting to hold the county liable for injuries suffered and damage to his truck when it went into a ditch in that county. Brooks claimed that an abrupt turn to a bridge was not marked so that he could avoid the accident.

The third suit appealed to the Supreme court was an action by George L. Roth, owner of the Paramount Radio Shop at Omaha, which was dismissed on a directed verdict in District court. Roth sued the Bee-News Publishing Co., R. S. Proudfit Co., Glenn A. Crancer Radio Co., Hodge Electric and Radio Shop for $15,936. He claimed the newspaper had rejected an advertisement it had previously accepted as a result of a conspiracy with the other companies named as defendants. The newspaper claimed the right to reject any advertising.

Municipal Lighting Department Supply Bids To Be Rejected

Offers on supplying the city lighting department with wire, insulators, head pins and spool racks, were opened Saturday morning by the city engineer, and Paul W. Doerr, commissioner in charge of the department. They will all be rejected by the council Mondap, the city engineer said, and a new advertisement ordered published.

Decision to re-advertise is the result of the original specifications not being exact enough. The new requirements will be in complete detail, as will the bids. The council will also reserve the right to purchase the materials from one or more of the bidders.

It was thought probable that bids on other supplies, to be opened on June 10, also will be rejected, and new offers demanded.

The bids opened today:

Westinghouse Electric Co., $1,348.84.
General Electric Supply Co., $1,478.68.
Korsmeyer Co., $1,441.06.
Hughes Bros., racks only, $311.25.
Enterprise Electric Co., $1,358.55.
E J. Ford Co., $1,454.62.
Western Electric Supply Co. $1,291.64.

City Not To Rush Street Paving Which University Opposes

Commissioner Bair, head of the street department, Saturday said that he had no intention of asking the council Monday to order W street paved from Eleventh to Fourteenth street. An ordinance creating the district was passed by the council in April.

The request of President Shaw of the university board of regents that the paving be deferred, and asking for a hearing, has not reached Mr. Bair, he said. "Certainly I will not ask that the paving be ordered until after the university has had a chance to be heard," he declared.

E. H. Holms who has been urging the council to pave the street, said that unless something is done soon it is his intention to start action against the city. He will charge property damage, he said.

The university owns nearly three-fourths of the property involved.

BACCALAUREATE SERMONS.

The Bethany high school baccalaureate sermon for graduating seniors will be held at the Bethany Christian church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock with Nelson Gardner delivering the sermon.

Rev. W. F Perry will deliver the Jackson high school baccalaureate sermon at the First Methodist church Sunday evening at 8 o'clock on the subject "Heroism of Principles." This service is being held at the First Methodist church, instead of at the Fourth Presbyterian church, as was incorrectly stated yesterday.

NO NEW BONDS IN PAST MONTH

But Nebraska People Pay Off In Excess Of $100,000 Debts.

State Auditor Price's record of public bond issues in Nebraska shows a clean slate again for the month of May, with not a single addition made to the list enrolled in his office. In two instances, however, refunding bonds were sent in for registration, taking the place of obligations in the same amounts which were previously outstanding.

The two refunded issues were both municipal district and intersection paving bonds of the village of Elgin, aggregating $52,000. One of the new series is for $21,000, bearing 5 per cent, and the other $31,000 which draw 4¾ per cent.

As against the record of no new bonds promulgated in May, and only $52,000 of old ones reissued, the state's auditor's summary discloses that 46 cities, villages, school districts, and miscellaneous local subdivisions called in and paid off $100,400 of their funded I. O. U.'s. Of this amount $22,600 was retired by school districts and the rest by municipalities and other units.

The largest amounts paid and cancelled were $25,000 of paving and intersection bonds by the village of Peru and $8,000 of courthouse bonds by Kimball county.

Dempsey Pulls Squeeze Play on Gotham Rival

Promoter John Grabs World Title Battle Coming In September

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

(Copyright, 1933, by International News Service.)

NEW YORK, June 3—(INS)—For the first time during the modern generation, the two great heavyweight fights of the year are to be conducted without the support, the auspices and, at the moment, even the knowledge of Madison Square Garden.

Phony Denials Coming.

This statement does not refer to the Sharkey-Carnera meeting for the heavyweight championship late this month, nor does it mean to. The first great fight of the year is the Schmeling-Baer brawl, which came with a rush yesterday to sell itself back beyond the twentieth row and practically ordain a minimum gross of $250,000.

The second great fight of the year will take the Schmeling-Baer winner and couple him with the Sharkey-Carnera winner for the heavyweight championship in September. Terms have been agreed upon by all parties affected and concerned. Denials will be issued by at least two sources because a little discreet "ball playing" is necessary at this time. These denials will be echoed by Madison Square Garden because it doesn't know.

Dempsey The Promoter.

Nevertheless, the deal is on and all concerned understand one another. The Yankee stadium will be the scene of this second and greatest fight, Johnny Utley of Detroit, then, as now, will be the bank-roll. Jack Dempsey will be its promoter. He has agreed to terms on behalf of Baer, whom he controls. Louis Soresi, the man's real though unseen manager, has guaranteed to produce Carnera, when wanted and if needed. Joe Jacobs has done the same for Schmeling. Without naming any names, the Sharkey people are lined up, too.

In this latter connection, it may or may not be significant that Sharkey in recent days has personally declared for a definite break with his manager, Johnny Buckley, after the Carnera meeting. In any case, the necessity is urgent at this time to profess undying allegiance to Carey, to Johnston and to the organization that employs them.

Carey, Johnston To Depart.

Strangely, however, neither Carey nor Johnston may long care about that. William F. Carey is leaving Madison Square Garden within a few months, Johnny Kilpatrick, the old Yale end, being the new man in charge. Johnston may depart even sooner. Rather pressing reports have James J. Bronson, Tunney's ex-aid, or Tim Mara, the ex-bookmaker, going in. But in no instance do these reports have James J. Johnston staying in and, off hand, I'd say this was not without significance.

So, seemingly, it's a tottering edifice, this house that Rickard built, and if further testimony on this were necessary, it was furnished yesterday when the populace rose up overnight and stromed the ticket windows for Dempsey's show, pressing more than $20,000 on the startled window men. When they closed for the night, the so-called "cash in the kick" was $83,000, without a ticket available from the twentieth row in.

Seat Sale Picking Up.

Unbiased speculators now predict that the fight won't do worse than $250,000 and might go as high as $325,000, depending on the weather. In other words, the thing has now caught on. Even the Jews, who were threatening a boycott of Schmeling, have decided not to bother about that. One of them was trying to buy 300 ringside seats "at the market" yesterday and couldn't even get to the post.

His alternative was the speculators, who are asking—and getting—$70 a pair for seats inside the first 12 rows. That fact establishes the status of this promotion. When the speculators get up there in the penthouse prices, the fight can't miss.

It is all too apparent now that this one won't.

LINKS GRAB OFF FINALE ON ROAD

Capital City Club Trims Norfolk; Comes Home To Play Blues.

Lincoln's State league baseball club returned home Saturday, following a road trip on which the Links picked up one game in each of the series away from home. Lincoln entertains Beatrice at Landis field this evening, the game being billed for 8 o'clock.

Pitcher Salmon let Norfolk down with three hits Friday night as Lincoln beat the league leaders, 6-2, on the Elkhorns' lot. Gutteridge's homer factored in the victory.

Sioux Falls stepped into second place by hanging a 7-6 defeat on Beatrice. The Canaries scored three runs in the seventh and drove across the winning tally in the ninth. Scores:

Death Takes Grand Old Man of Boxing

PURCHASE, N. Y., June 3—(INS)—William Muldoon, 88-year-old dean of the New York athletic commission, died at his home at 4:40 this morning.

Muldoon had been gradually failing in health for the last two years. Only a few days ago he celebrated his birthday, but was too weak to give out his annual interview on health and sport.

He had lost weight rapidly within the last year and appeared only a shadow of the man who was once a famous wrestler and who handled John L. Sullivan. His physician, Dr. Henry T. Kelly, said death was due to arthritis.

The "solid man," as he was known in the sport world, was at one time Graeco - Roman wrestling champion. He went on the stage and played the part of "Charles the Wrestler" in Shakespeare's "As You Like It."

Muldoon was always a martinet in his ideas of health and was the only man Sullivan ever feared. When training Sullivan, he made the heavyweight champion obey orders as if he were a child.

He used the same method later when he established his noted health farm, where he made Chauncey M. Depew and other famous men live under the strictest discipline, and they liked it.

RATES MAXIE AS GREAT SCRAPPER

Boxing Partner High In Praise of German's Ring Ability.

LAKE SWANNANOA, N. J., June 3—(AP)—Take it from Lou Barba, New York heavyweight, Max Schmeling is a vastly improved fighter.

"He's exceptionally smart," says Barba, who has been the German's sparring partner at five training camps. "You seldom get a clean shot at his jaw. He's as quick as a cat and if you make one little mistake, he'll bring over that right and you finish up on the canvas. Max Baer will have a tough time hitting him on the jaw with his left next Thursday night."

Schmeling, idle yesterday, was to resumehis boxing drill tomorrow.

Baer at Physical Best.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 3—(AP)—If Max Baer fails to whip Max Schmeling in the Yankee stadium next Thursday night, he'll have no alibis on the score of physical condition.

The big Californian, training seriously for perhaps the first time in his life, has worked himself into the finest condition of his career. At the close of a brief workout yesterday, Baer scaled 210 pounds, only a couple of pounds more than he expects to weigh the night of the fight. He hasn't suffered a single cut or injury and extreme caution is being exercised to see that none develops in the last few days of training.

Scalpers Estimate Crowd.

NEW YORK, June 3 —(INS) — The minimum attendance at the Baer-Schmeling fight here next Thursday will be 50,000, ticket speculators estimated today.

They base their estimate on the fact that today, five days before the fight, the advance ticket sale totals $83,000, even though "tops" are only $11.50. Six days before the Sharkey-Schmeling fight last year, at which the top price was $23, the advance sale was $67,000. That show grossed $440,000.

Kingfish Accused Roughing Referee

CHICAGO, June 3—(AP)—King Levinsky, Chicago's wild swinging heavyweight, today was all square with Tuffy Griffiths of Sioux City, Ia., as far as fighting was concerned, but he had some explaining to do before coming into possession of a purse of around $2,000.

After the King had mauled out a 10 round decision over Griffiths last night at Mills stadium, Joseph Triner, chairman of the Illinois state athletic commission, ordered the winner's purse held up, pending an investigation into Levinsky's conduct in the ring.

Triner thought Levinsky, who outpointed Griffiths by a big margin, showed too little respect for Referee "Little Phil" Collins. Levinsky shoved Collins about the ring and on one occasion reached over the official's shoulder for a punch at Griffiths.

Griffiths claimed to have suffered a fracture of his right thumb early in the bout.

Levinsky's victory evened up for a decision won by Griffiths about two years ago. On that occasion, the Levinsky interests guaranteed Griffiths $25,000 for the fight.

White Hose Slugger Has Substantial Lead In All-Star Votes.

CHICAGO, June 3—(INS)—Al Simmons, slugging outfielder of the Chicago White Sox, still was leading Babe Ruth today in the popular vote to select an American league team of All-Stars to face the best in the National loop here July 6.

Simmons has 40,278 votes to 38,151 for the Babe. Averill of Cleveland was less than 2,000 ballots behind Ruth.

Lou Gehrig was out in front of Jimmy Foxx by 20,000 in the balloting for first base, while Lefty Grove of Philadelphia apparently had the hurling honors cinched. The vote totals to date:

Balloting to Date.

Pitchers—Bob Grove, Philadelphia, 38,296; Vernon Gomez, New York, 23,062; Wes Ferrell, Cleveland, 14,891; Oral Hildebrand, Cleveland, 10,353.

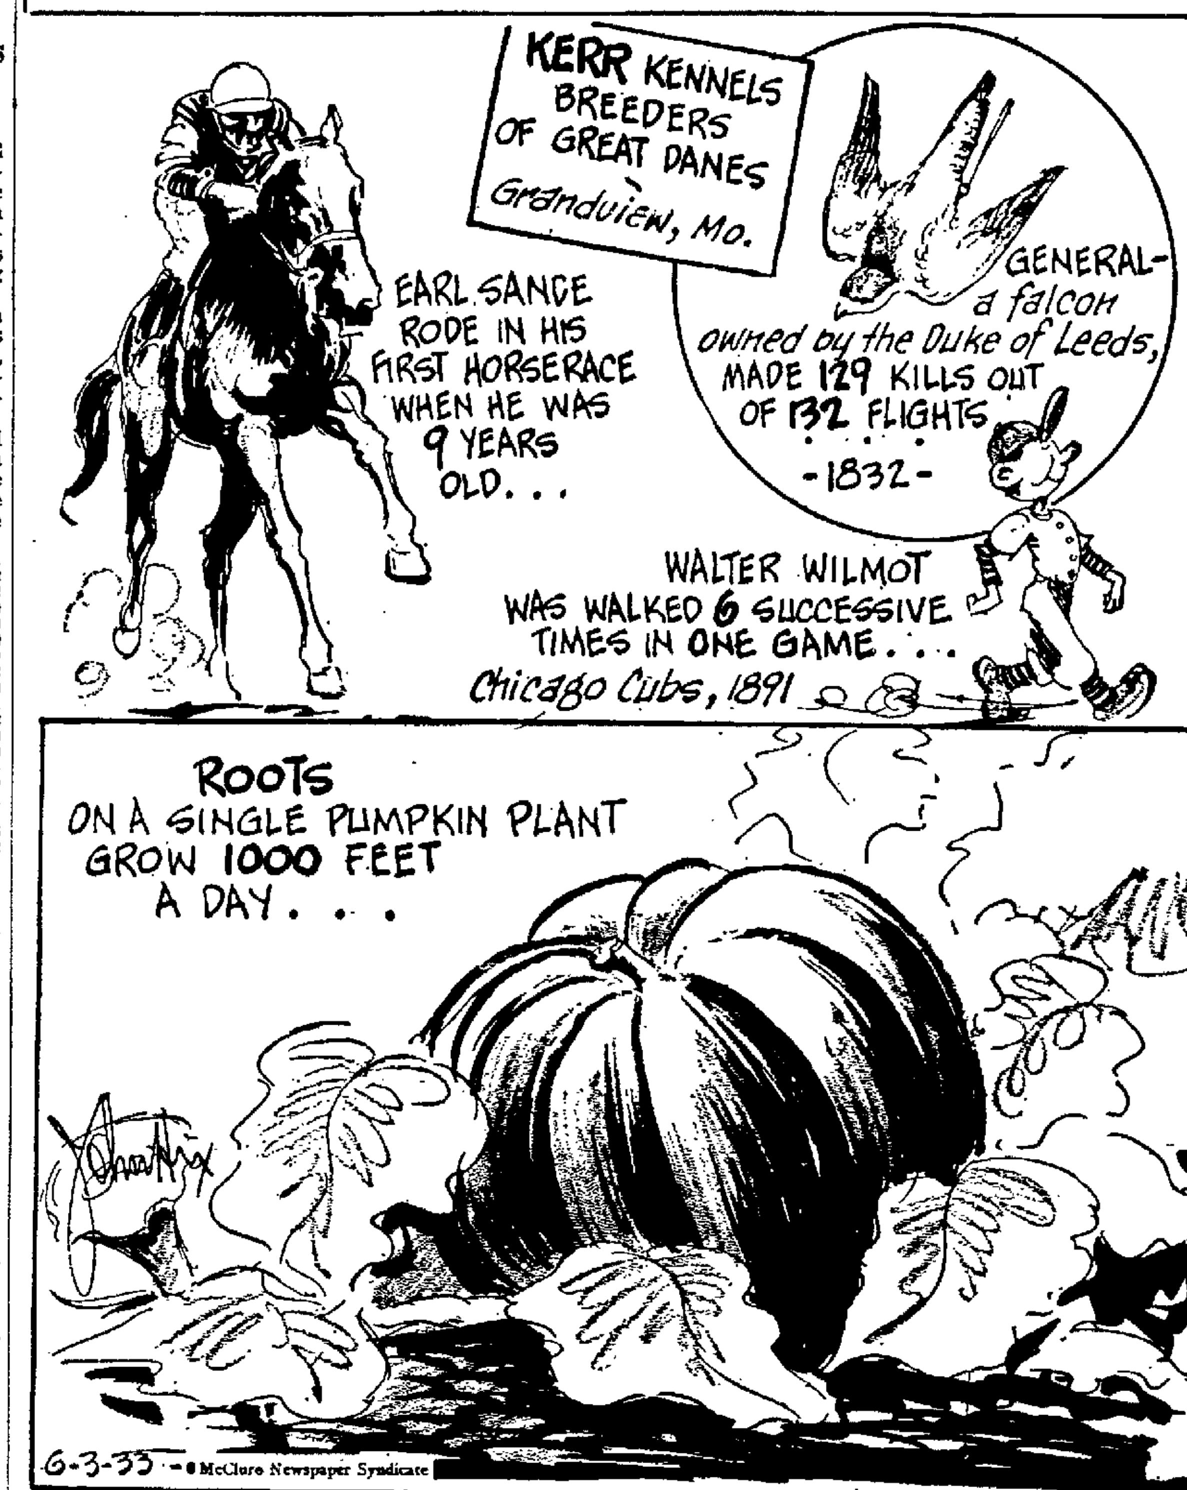

Jack Refuses Be Third Man

NEW YORK, June 3—(INS)—Jack Dempsey, promoter of the Baer-Schmeling fight here next Thursday, won't referee it.

"I would like to referee this bout, but this is my show and there are plenty of capable referees around to handle the job," Dempsey said, in rejecting fervid pleas of the managers of the principals that he apply for permission to act as the third man in the ring.

A single pumpkin plant, investigators have found, may have a root system 80,000 feet long, or more than 15 miles. The speed at which the pumpkin plant grows above ground is well known, but the Department of Agriculture asserts that the root system of an 80,000-foot plant must have grown at the rate of 1000 feet a day for fully 50 days during the lifetime of the plant.

"Falconry, "the sport of kings," has been followed since remote times throughout most of the world, and like any other famous sport, it has produced its noted characters and champions. Not only was falconry a much followed sport among the gentry of medieval Europe, but since before history was first written it has enjoyed popularity in China, Japan, India and northern Africa as well as in European states. Unlike many another old-time sport, the methods used in falconry today differ little from those of three centuries ago.

"General," a famous falcon owned by the Duke of Leeds, a century ago in England, gained a notable place in falconry's hall of fame when she made 129 kills in 132 successive flights. "Parachute," another famous falcon, killed 57 grouse, 76 partridges, five pheasants, three hares, and five miscellaneous birds in 33 days.

Earle Sande, dean of jockeys, took part in his first horse race when he was nine years old, on his parents' ranch near American Falls, Idaho.

QUEST IS ON FOR CHAMPION COLT

Argument Comes Up for Settlement In Windy City Derby.

By JOHN C. HOFFMAN.

CHICAGO, June 3—(INS)— The quest for the horse race season's three-year-old champion, somewhat confused by Broker's Tip's defeat of Head Play in the Kentucky derby and Mr. Khayyam's victory in the Wood Memorial stakes, goes on today in Col. Matt Winn's world's fair American derby at Washington park.

Head Play, who lost the Kentucky derby because he didn't stick out his nose at the appointed time, only to win the Preakness and then lose to the son of Omar Khayyam in the Wood stakes, is, of course, a strong choice to win the $25,000 added and goodly number of the 50,000 expected to view the classic will hold a ticket on him.

And, again, it may be that neither of these thoroughbreds is the champion, as horse champions go. A triumph for Mrs. Silas B. Mason's Head Play would put the contest in the category of a championship event, but a victory for anyone of the remaining nine which may face the barrier would serve only to confuse the horse players.

East Against West.

In any event, the race takes on something of an east vs. west contest, with Mrs. Mason's Head Play and the Strathmore entry, Charley O., representing the west, running against J. M. Austin's Mr. Khayyam and M. L. Schwartz's Gold Basis.

Going to the post, Head Play no doubt will be a 6 to 5 choice, with Mr. Khayyam, Charley O. and Gold Basis somewhere between 3 to 1 and 5 to 1.

It wasn't Head Play's alibi, because he is characteristically unconcerned about such matters, but down east they are saying that the Kentucky horse pulled up third in the Wood Memorial because he did not like the fast track and was fatigued from being shipped from Louisville to Baltimore and then to New York. Still, the ticket buyers like Head Play as the best three-year-old since Twenty Grand today or any other day, but maybe not tomorrow.

The overnight field included 10 thoroughbreds, two of which are fillies and two others of whom have never won a race. Jockey Kurtsinger was given the mount on Head Play in place of Lee Humphries. Johnny Westrope, the sensation of the meeting here, won himself a place in the contest when Hal Price named him to ride the filly, Technique. Late entries were Bamboula, Swinhaven and Sun Envoy.

Shaky Defense Beats A's In Opening Joust of Series With Yanks

By LES CONKLIN.

NEW YORK, June 3—(INS)—If Connie Mack fails to win the American league pennant this year, he can place the blame squarely on the shoulders—or rather the head and arm—of Rabbit McNair, his regular shortstop. Rabbit lost his head the first day in training camp this spring and began burning throws across the diamond with mid-summer zest. His outraged arm has been sore ever since. Meanwhile, the errors of Ed Cihocki, McNair's understudy, have cost the Athletics about 10 ball games.

A's Tossed It Away.

The A's would have beaten the league-leading Yankees easily yesterday but for a sloppy play by Cihocki and a wild heave by "Rubber-arm" Grove, baseball's new iron-man. Although he wasn't charged with an error, Cihocki helped the Yanks to two runs in the first inning by messing up a grounder and losing a pop fly in the sun. A few minutes later, Mr. McGillicuddy yanked him.

In the eighth inning, Grove, called upon for relief duty for the ninth time in Philadelphia's last 11 games, became the pitcher who went to the well once too often. He was nicked for a single by Pinch-hitter Ruffing that tied the score, and then uncorked a wild pitch that let in another run and staked the Yankees to a 5 to 4 victory. The champions have captured all five of their clashes with the Mackmen this season.

Gomez Adds to String.

Vernon Gomez, star New York southpaw, who was credited with the victory, has won nine of his last 10 starts against the A's. He struck out 13 men in his eight innings on the mound, setting a new high mark for the American league this year and equaling Carl Hubbell's season's record in the National league. Williams and Bishop nicked him for homers, while Crosetti hit one for the Yanks.

Why Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yanks fears Cleveland was demonstrated when Hildebrand and Harder handcuffed St. Louis in a twin bill, 2 to 1 and 1 to 0. Hildebrand yielded only four hits and Harder six. In their last three games, the Browns have collected a grand total of 13 hits off Cleveland's great staff of right-handers.

Roger Peckinpaugh, manager of the Indians, was pleased when Johnny Burnett drove in a run in each game yesterday. Peck has been risking his job by using Burnett at shortstop instead of Bill Knickerbocker, the rookie favored by the front office.

The Indians tied Washington for second place, the A's dropping to fourth. The Senators massacred the Red Sox, 8 to 3, collecting 13 hits.

Marvin Owen had a perfect day at bat with five hits as Detroit walloped 16 blows and slaughtered the White Sox, 14 to 1. Herring limited Chicago to six hits.

The Giants made it six straight over the Phillies by taking an 11 to 3 slugfest at Baker bowl. Although the total of base hits was 33, there were no homers.

The Braves and Dodgers took off their fur coats and played a double bill in Boston. Ed Brandt held Brooklyn to five hits in the opener and won in a romp, 6 to 1. In the nightcap, Ray Benge chalked up his first triumph of the year for the Dodgers, 7 to 2. Other clubs were not scheduled.

MARTIN SLUMPS TO FIFTH PLACE

Pepper Loses Leadership In National League Batting Table.

NEW YORK, June 3—(AP)—Urban "Johnny" Hodapp of the Boston Red Sox and Johnny Frederick of the Brooklyn Dodgers cut rather large figures in the major league batting picture during the past week and wound up as the leaders of the two big leagues after yesterday's games.

Hodapp held his average up to the previous week's .374 level, while his rivals slumped badly. Sam West of St. Louis, American league leader a week ago, got back into action, after a long layoff, and promptly dropped to fourth place in the list of leaders, as his average shot down from .381 to .363. Al Simmons' mark dropped seven points to .366, but he advanced to second place.

Frederick profited by a sudden slump on the part of Pepper Martin of the St. Louis Cardinals, who had ousted him from the National lead for a while, and went back to the top by hoisting his average three points to .365. Martin dropped to fifth place at .344 with a 25 point loss.

Traynor In Second Place.

Pie Traynor of Pittsburgh gained second, although he lost 12 points, and found Chuck Klein of the Phillies only a point behind at .347.

Klein failed to improve his slugging marks much during the week, but he remained first or tied for first in his league in four departments. His totals were 41 runs batted in, 60 hits, 16 doubles and 10 home runs. Lou Gehrig of the Yankees held a similar position in the American league, showing the way with totals of 36 runs, 34 runs batted in and 10 homers. Plan Rescind Berlin Award

VIENNA, June 3—(AP)—As delegates to the International Olympic committee meeting, scheduled for next week, gathered today there was a distinct movement afoot to cancel the award of the 1936 games to Berlin because of the anti-Semitic movement there.

Brig.-Gen. Charles Sherrill, one of the American delegates, although he would not say whether he favored such action, said the United States would take an "energetic stand" at the meeting against any discrimination against Jews in Olympic competition.

If the movement to cancel the Berlin games is successful, it was said Rome was a logical choice for the site of the next Olympiad.

OLD GUARD SETS PACE AT ST. PAUL

Familiar Names Bob Up To Adorn List of Golf Leaders.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 3—(INS)—Two new pretenders to golfing glory and several local favorites defied the old guard today as the St. Paul $5,000 open swung into its second 18-hole round. But the popular opinion was that, when the firing ends Sunday evening after the final 36-hole round, it would still be a member of the old guard that would be champion.

George Von Elm took charge of the situation in the early medal play yesterday as he shaved two strokes off the par 72 of Keller course. But he was forced to share the lead, as Jim Foulis of Hinsdale, Ill., bounding in with a pair of 35s himself, swung abreast as the field of 108 neared the close.

Von Elm's Keen Putting.

Von Elm refused to be worried by a stiff wind and his putting helped materially to put him in the lead.

Trailing by two strokes was Archie Hambrick, diminutive Zanesville, O., pro who won the driving contest on the opening day.

Bracketed with 73 strokes were two Ryder cup team members, Walter Hagen and Paul Runyon, and two local players, Les Bolstad and Leonard Mattson.

Among the old guard shooting 74 in the medal play were Harry Cooper and Olin Dutra, winner of the P. G. A. championship last year. With them stood Johnny Revolta, Wisconsin open champion, Lee Herron, amateur holder of the Minnesota open title, and Ernie Penfold, Minneapolis pro.
